MARANGI DEFENCE STARTS

Counsel for Accused Charges Slain Man Had Vowed to Kill North End Beauty

The defense opened its case today in the trial of Mrs. Theresa Marangi and Ignazio Carlucci, charged with the murder of Mrs. Marangi's brother-in-law, Leo Marangi.

An outline of the facts which Attorney William R. Scharton alleges will clear his clients was delivered by the attorney before Judge Quinn and the jury in Suffolk Superior Court.

He charged that Leo Marangi, known as Big Leo, and his son Leo, known as Little Leo, threatened to kill Mrs. Marangi on the night that Big Leo was himself slain, and also threatened to do away with Carlucci, who was a boarder in Mrs. Marangi's house.

CLAIMS THREATS MADE.

The threats were made at a party at which were present Big Leo, Little Leo and several of their friends, Attorney Scharton said. He declared he would produce evidence to prove that despite efforts on the part of some of those present to make him change his mind, Big Leo, accompanied by his son and two friends, started out for the home of Mrs. Marangi with the express purpose of killing them.

En route, Attorney Scharton said, the party met Armando Siciliano. They invited him to join them and help in the assassination. He refused to come along. Instead he telephoned Mrs. Marangi and warned her.

BATTERED IN DOOR.

The party reached the Marangi home. They battered in the door. Mrs. Marangi refused to let them in. Carlucci was awakened. He came to the window and saw the men at the door. Little Leo yelled a vile epithet and dared him to come down. When he refused, Little Leo fired several shots.

Carlucci, the lawyer said, then aided Mrs. Marangi to escape by way of the fire escape. In the meantime

Ends Life in Niagara Falls When Brother Gives Away Dog

New York, March 2.—Nicholas Apostle, New York tailor, who jumped over Niagara Falls to his death, ended his life, his brother said, because of his love for a bulldog, Prince, which the brother had given away.

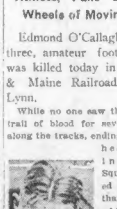
Nicholas had been missing from his Long Island home since Wednesday. He vanished after the quarrel over the dog.

GRID STAR IS KILLED BY TRAIN

Edmond O'Callaghan, a Lynn Athlete, Falls Under the Wheels of Moving Coach

Edmond O'Callaghan, twenty-three, amateur football player, was killed today in the Boston & Maine Railroad station at Lynn.

While no one saw the accident, a trail of blood for seventy-five feet along the tracks, ending on the overhead structure in Central Square, indicated to the police that the victim attempted to board a moving train and was dragged along the ties.



Edmond O'Callaghan

O'Callaghan was the star quarterback of Lynn High School in 1919 and later was one of the stars of the North Shore League.

He had started for work in the office of the Boston Drug & Chemical Co. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edmond O'Callaghan of No. 17

POLA AND CHARLIE FIX IT UP

Film Stars Re-engaged After "Six Hours of Desolation"

Los Angeles, March 2.—Cupid was king again in Hollywood today and romance lived anew for Pola Negri, Polish tragedienne of the silver sheet, and Charles Chaplin, screenland's most famous comedian.

Their troth plighted over again after a six hour desolate break, Miss Negri was "too happy to sleep," when she reannounced it in the small hours of today, and Mr. Chaplin was the typical "happiest man in the world," when he entered his limousine after a conference of conciliation in which the new queen of make believe said he told her he "loved me and could not live without me."

"We have made up," said Miss Negri. "I believe that is what you call it here in America. Mr. Chaplin came to my home early last evening and he stayed late. I have taken him back and we are quite reconciled and engaged again. I am so happy I cannot go to sleep."

Mr. Chaplin denied to her that he had told a newspapper he was "too poor to marry just now; this is a workday world and we've all got to stay busy and keep away from climaxes of sentiment."

It was that which precipitated the breaking of the engagement.

Miss Negri read the accredited statement. Without reference to Mr. Chaplin the agreement to wed was terminated abruptly.

A typewritten statement said the newest star in America's movie capital considered herself "too poor to marry Charles Chaplin; he needs a wealthy woman." Tears, her own, not the applied glycerine of the procession, rolled down Miss Negri's cheeks as the neatly typed statement was handed to newspapermen.

It was these newspaper men who informed Mr. Chaplin first of the lashing of his hopes.

Over the telephone they told him. Mr. Chaplin replied:

"Oh!" and "Is that so?" and abruptly the receiver in the Chaplin home clicked to its resting place. Even his best friends thereafter were barred from his doors.

Scores of reasons were advanced. There was talk of a rival, a Polish painter who was going to California to build a home, and for whom? The lips of the little tragedienne trembled and her eyes filled with tears as she added to the typed statement: "There were a thousand things. It is another experience. I

11 Lynchers Seized in Florida

By Associated Press.

Palatka, Fla., March 2.—Eleven members of a mob were captured today and lodged in Alachua jail, after being repulsed by Sheriff Hogan, when they attempted to storm the Putnam county jail here to get Arthur Johnson, negro prisoner. More than fifty shots were fired into the jail, one striking Sheriff Hogan in the left hand.

Johnson is accused of killing a Gainesville man. The mob came from that town.

DRY CHIEF APPLEBY ON JOB

New Leader Doesn't Boast He'll Clean Up Hub in Three Months

By MARGERY LEE.

Found: A new "dry" agent who doesn't boast that in three months Boston will have forgotten even the smell of liquor!

John Duncan Appleby, new Divisional Chief for New England, arrived in Boston today with a look of determination in his genial blue eye. But he made no startling promises about what he intended doing to Boston bootleggers.

"Cousetically speaking, the liquor situation is getting better and bet-

GRAVE OF U. S. WAR HERO IS DESECRATED BY TURKS

Commander Eugene Driscoll of Somerville, dispatched letters today to United States Senators Lodge and Walsh and Congressman Underhill asking immediate steps be taken by the United States to investigate desecration by Turkish soldiery in Greece of the remains of Private Georg Dilboy, Somerville war hero.

Dilboy Post, through its commander, seeks to have the desecrated bones of Dilboy recovered and sent to this country for safe burial.

The United States Government is asked to make vigorous protest to Turkey against the vandalism of its troops to the remains of an American World War hero.

If the soldiers or the detachment officer responsible for the outrage can be determined punishment of them will be sought.

MRS. BEAN FREED BY COURT

Prosecutor Moves to Nol Pros Case Before Defence Is Heard

Farmington, Me., March 2.—Mrs. Ethel H. Bean of Haines Landing was freed today on the charge of having murdered her husband, Otis Bean.

The State quit without waiting for Mrs. Bean's defence. Attorney-General R. W. Shaw admitted to Supreme Court Judge Dunn that the State had not proved its case.

The prosecutor moved that the case be nol-prossed. This was ordered by Judge Dunn, amid one of the most joyous tumults in the history of the Maine Supreme Court.

Mrs. Bean was hugged and kissed by her sister and aged mother. She shook hands with the Attorney-General, the official who had fought to have her imprisoned for life.

The court tumult rose to such furore that Judge Dunn was roused to threat of punishing the demonstrators.

MYSTERY UNSOLVED.

The collapse of the State's case leaves still unsolved the mystery of who shot Otis Bean, letter-carrier and guide, at Haines Landing last October.

The defence was to open today. The courtroom was jammed. The atmosphere was electric with interest.

Five minutes after court opened the State admitted its defeat. As the spectators took in the meaning of

Sacco 'Dying'; Declares He 'Don't Care'

Dedham, March 2.—Nicola Sacco, convicted with Bartolomeo Vanzetti of the murder of a paymaster and his guard at South Braintree, showed signs of weakness today, the sixteenth consecutive day that he has rejected all food placed before him by Dedham jail officials.

He continued to drink large quantities of water and the officials assert that he has partaken of fruit and other food brought him by his wife and other visitors. Yesterday there were no visitors. The Sacco-Vanzetti Defence Committee, however, declares he has eaten nothing in 16 days.

Dr. Arthur M. Worthington, jail physician, told Sacco today that he was committing suicide.

"I don't care if I am," Sacco replied.

The officials say that the prisoner has made no complaint of the prison fare but has indicated that his hunger strike is a protest against being kept in jail so long without sentence after his conviction of a crime of which he contends he was innocent.

Motions looking toward a new trial are pending in the courts.

Counsel for Sacco and Vanzetti have made five motions for new trials, based on new evidence, on alleged discrediting of testimony and on exceptions taken during the trial. These motions were set for hearing on February 3, but because Judge Webster Thayer, who presided at the trial, was sick in a hospital at the time, it was announced, postponement was necessary.

The hearing is now set tentatively for next Friday.

BALDWIN SLAIN BY WOMAN, POLICE SAY

Manila, March 2. (By International News Service).—Police investigation of the death of George Baldwin shows he was murdered by the woman, who then committed suicide. The tragedy was the closing chapter, police learned, of an orgy lasting several weeks. Baldwin was clasped in the arms of the dead woman. They were the victims of a powerful poison. At first a suicide pact was considered possible. The police then decided it was murder and suicide. Baldwin was a composer of note.

ANOTHER IS CRUSHED BY LIFT

Victims Trapped in Shaft of New Building by Descending Car

One man was killed and one seriously injured in an elevator accident today in the new office building at No. 211 Congress street.

George Sheidow, forty years old, of No. 1922 Columbus avenue, was the man killed. The injured man is Gus Anderson, forty-five, of Chelsea. He was taken to the Relief Hospital.

Both men are employed by the Parlor Elevator Corporation of No. 48 Devonshire street. They were at work at the bottom of Elevator Shaft No. 1, testing the equipment, when the elevator runner ran the elevator down, crushing both men beneath it.

A shriek from Anderson warned the operator, who ran his car up. Sheidow was killed instantly.

Halifax, N. S., March 2.—The Canadian government's ice breaker, Stanley, which sailed from Louisburg yesterday in an attempt to reach the freighter Pro Patria, disabled in the ice seventy miles from St. Pierre, wirelessed today that she herself had been caught in an ice field fifty miles east-southeast of Louisburg.

SHOCKHART DEMANDS SUGAR PROBE

Washington, March 2 (By International News Service).—An investigation by the Senate of manipulation in the sugar market was demanded in a resolution introduced today by Senator Shockhart, Republican, of Iowa. He quoted reports in the press that "the sugar market is being advanced at a rate to rapid the consuming public has been mulcted out of many millions of dollars."

GASOLINE QUALITY IMPROVES STEADILY

Washington, March 2.—The quality of gasoline marketed in the United States is improving steadily and the tendency is toward greater uniformity, the Bureau of Mines announced today. An increase in volatility was noted, with a diminishing seasonal variation in Summer and Winter gasolines.

have learned. Now I will live only for my work. All the rest, the happy days, are dead to me. It is all over."

Charlie for the time was lost sight of. It was believed he was in retirement in his home, thinking.

While the early editions of morning papers in the Hollywood movie district heralded, in the selling talk of the newsboys, that "Pola gives Charlie the air," Chaplin made his way to Miss Negri's retreat.

Just what happened then probably never will be given the world in detail. But after midnight Chaplin went home, with a smile on his face, and Miss Negri, her fingers again weighed with the platinum engagement ring she had removed a few hours previously, was contemplating her joy, "too happy to sleep," she said.

Miss Negri frankly admitted her happiness in "making up." She swore to me he never had said he was too poor to marry me," she said. "He told me he loved me and could not live without me. And so, of course, I believed him and have taken him back."

NEW DRY CHIEF ON THE JOB

ter, but it will be a long time before Prohibition agents will be out of a job," he said.

"Smuggling has always been a popular and profitable sport, but right now it is more in vogue than ever. People have always been a little proud of their ability to smuggle forbidden fruits past the revenue authorities.

RATHER SMART.

"That's the greatest obstacle in our way; the fact that public opinion still believes bootlegging is rather smart."

The ways and methods used by the moonshine merchants are thoroughly known to the new prohibition chief. He is highly respected by hundreds of the very bootleggers he has put out of business, but he is also known to get what he goes after, according to the reputation he had in New York.

"You'd think every man, woman and child took a daily bath in alcohol, after you looked at the statistics of the alcohol wash sales made in drug stores.

"Whereas about 50,000 gallons were manufactured yearly before prohibition, 9,000,000 gallons were sold last year. This is re-distilled and mixed with coloring matter and a small percentage of real whiskey and comprises about seventy per cent. of all the liquor that is sold in the United States."

LOVES RUM RUNNERS.

The rum-running fleets are his pet aversion. He says wrecking rum runners is the thing he likes best. He pounces with glee on a crew and chases it mercilessly beyond the three-mile limit.

Chief Appleby has a choice collection of the bogus seals and bonds and corks and even revenue stamps used by the smugglers bottling their "out" whiskey.

"Every bootlegger who is selling the deadly poisonous liquor should be convicted not only of selling illegal liquor, but of manslaughter. We ought to have a law making the liquor dealer responsible for the deaths he causes. They care nothing for human life. Only the exorbitant price they get for their poison counts to them."

Despite his bitter scathing of the bootleggers, he has a broad and human way of looking at the law breakers.

"I always try to see their view and deal with them as man to man," he said. "We are doing a great deal to remedy the situation, but like the famous poor, the bootlegger will always be with us as long as there is a prohibition law. Laws necessarily bring infringement."

RUM BANDITS GET $5,000 IN WHISKEY

Burlettsville, Md., March 2.—Whiskey bandits, who came from Washington in four motor cars, raided the old Hersey distillery here today and escaped with about $5,000 worth of bonded liquor after a gun fight with the distillery guards. One of the bandits was captured.

WORLD COURT PLAN REJECTED BY SENATORS

Washington, March 2.—The decision not to act at this session of Congress on President Harding's proposal for American membership in the International Court of Justice was reaffirmed by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee today after it had received a further explanation of the administration's purpose from President Harding and Secretary Hughes.

To agree beforehand to compulsory jurisdiction of the court over international disputes, the secretary conceded, would be contrary to the sentiment of the Senate as clearly defined on many occasions in the past. No such agreement would be necessary, however, he declared, because the League of Nations protocol creating the court gave participating nations an opportunity to elect beforehand whether they would regard decisions affecting them as compulsory in all cases.

To the committee's question as to whether the administration favored a compulsory arbitration treaty, Mr. Hughes replied, therefore, in the negative. He made a like reply to the question of whether the United States proposed by its membership in the court to "recognize as a binding obligation" that part of the Versailles treaty which sets up an international labor bureau. In response to a query as to whether other member nations had accepted the court with reservations, as the administration proposed the United States should do, he said he was "not advised that any other State has made reservations."

GIRL CHARGED WITH DRIVING WHILE DRUNK

Miss Dorothy B. Douglass of No. 187 Broadway, Somerville, a comely blonde, pleaded not guilty in Roxbury court today to a complaint of driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor on the night of Washington's birthday.

On the night in question two automobilists complained to Traffic Officer Charles L. Dunsford, at Commonwealth and Massachusetts avenues, Back Bay, that a woman driving a coupe had cut in ahead of them on Harvard Bridge in an improper manner.

Dunsford stopped a coupe which the police say, Miss Douglass was driving. There was a man in the car. After some talk the man took the wheel and the machine was driven along.

Monday Dunsford obtained a complaint against Miss Douglass.

BRITAIN REFUSES TO YIELD ON CONSULATE

London, March 2. (By International News Service).—The Foreign Office today turned down the request of industrial interests at New Castle-on-Tyne that Great Britain yield to the United States in the issue which led to the closing of the American consulate in that city. The consulate was closed by the United States after the British accused the consul, Fred Slater, of exercising pressure upon emigrants to induce them to sail on American ships.

HISTORIC SWORD IN NATIONAL MUSEUM

Washington, March 2.—The sword carried by General Richard Montgomery of the Continental Army when he was killed in an assault on Quebec, December 31, 1775, was transferred to the National Museum today in behalf of its owner, Miss Julia Barton Hunt.

The weapon was picked up beside Montgomery's body by a Canadian official. Ultimately it came into possession of Miss Hunt.

What's Real News?
A Cow is a Wonder
60,000,000-Mile Journey
A Court of Stacked Cards
—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1923, Star Co.

REAL NEWS is news that people talk about after they read it. Joseph Pulitzer, a real newspaper man, used to say, "I want a man on the street car to dig a total stranger in the ribs and ask, 'Did you see that blank, blank thing in the World this morning?' Then I know we are printing the news."

JAMES JEFFRIES, once the world's greatest prize fighter, apparently with a gold mine in his prowess, is declared a bankrupt.

Charlie Chaplin announces that he is too poor to marry. He makes about ten thousand dollars a week. He says, "It is a working world and he must keep away from climaxes of sentiment." One of his recent climaxes led to the divorce court.

A MAN jumped into the rapids of Niagara. He was less cautious than Chaplin. And there you have news that three-quarters of the people will talk about today.

They will wonder why Jeffries did not save enough money to take care of himself when old.

They will wonder how much money Charlie Chaplin would want for marriage if ten thousand a week isn't enough.

They will wonder how that man ever made up his mind to jump into the hideous "Rapids of Niagara." Things that make us WONDER are the things we talk about. That's why the circus man with a hideous two-headed calf can make money and couldn't make a cent with the finest normal calf in the world.

THE DAIRYMEN'S LEAGUE of New York State gave a first class Holstein cow to New York city's Zoological Garden. The people laugh, but they needn't. Thousands of New York children will see a cow for the first time in their lives.

Besides, nothing in the "Zoo," not the elephant, tiger, rhinoceros, liga, manator, iguanadon or manatee, is as interesting as that cow to the imagination.

THE COW is the foundation of civilization. Five hundred thousand, or a million years ago, one of our early grandmothers with a determined jaw, and the will to protect her children, made the men catch and tie a female buffalo, with calf. They ate the calf, and that early mother tamed and milked the buffalo. That was the beginning of "flocks and herds," and they were the beginning of modern life, gradually changing from nomadic to fixed habitations.

Civilization today and all that it means are built on the broad back of that cow, and the firm will of the ancient mother that tamed the buffalo.

YOU HAVE seen the lightning flash and heard the thunder a long while after. Children count to estimate the distance of the flash. The difference between the speed of sight and of sound is illustrated in the terrific collision that astronomers say has caused the sudden flaming up of a star in the Constellation of Cetus.

Whatever it was happened eighty years ago, for it takes eighty years, according to Professor Russell of Princeton, for light to travel from Cetus to our eyes.

YOU GET some idea of distances in space when you are told that if the noise of the collision in Cetus could be heard here, the sound would reach our earth about sixty million years from now.

It's a big universe, and you wonder how we microbes, traveling on a grain of cosmic dust, called the earth, can take ourselves so seriously.

THE PRESIDENT has given up temporarily the plan to get this country linked up with the "World Court" in Europe. A wise postponement, but total abandonment would be better. The President knows that the United States is thoroughly hated and think we ought not to collect it. They believe that the war in Europe. They owe us money.

SELF MASTERY Through Conscious AUTOSUGGESTION

This little work would be incomplete if it did not include a few examples of the cures obtained. It would take too long, and would also perhaps be somewhat tiring if I were to relate all those in which I have taken part. I will therefore content myself by quoting a few of the most remarkable:

Mlle. M—— D—— of Troyes had suffered for eight years from asthma, which obliged her to sit up in bed nearly all night, fighting for breath. Preliminary experiments show that she is a very sensitive subject. She sleeps immediately, and the suggestion is given. From the first treatment there is an enormous improvement. The patient has a good night, only interrupted by one attack of asthma, which only lasts a quarter of an hour. In a very short time the asthma disappears completely and there is no relapse later on.

M. M——, a working hosier living at Sainte-Savine near Troyes, paralyzed for two years as the result of injuries at the junction of the spinal column and the pelvis. The paralysis is only in the lower limbs, in which the circulation of the blood has practically ceased, making them swollen, congested and discolored. Several treatments have been tried without success. Preliminary experiments successful; suggestion applied by me and autosuggestion by the patient for eight days. At the end of this time there is an almost imperceptible but still appreciable movement of the left leg. Renewed suggestion. In eight days the improvement is noticeable. Every week or fortnight there is an increased improvement with progressive lessening of the swelling and so on. Eleven months afterwards, on the first of November, 1906, the patient goes downstairs alone and walks 800 yards, and in the month of July, 1907, goes back to the factory, where he has continued to work since that time, with no trace of paralysis.

Declares Move by France, Belgium and Italy Would Strike at America

By International News Service

London, March 2.—The movement for a Continental bloc, composed of France, Belgium and Italy, which was aimed to isolate Great Britain in Europe, collapsed under the opposition of the United States, it was learned this afternoon from an authoritative source.

Belgium favored it, but Italy was only lukewarm. It was learned Ambassador Myron T. Herrick informally advised Premier Poincare that in the event an anti-British bloc was formed the United States "could not remain indifferent."

Ambassador Herrick pointed out that Britain alone of the allied nations is fulfilling her obligations to the United States. An anti-British bloc, it was learned, would make it necessary for British to spend more money for armaments, thus impairing their ability to pay the United States wartime debt.

The United States took the view that an anti-British block in Europe would be an anti-American as well.

Premier Poincare is said to have broken off the continental bloc after Mr. Herrick had issued the warning.

Premier Poincare had been making efforts to obtain the close cooperation of Benito Mussolini of Italy, but the latter failed to see how it would be benefited by the alliance.

It is understood that Poincare is trying to strengthen the old entente between France and England.

French Troops Reoccupy Gelsenkirchen and Fine Other Towns

By International News Service.

Essen, March 2.—French troops reoccupied Gelsenkirchen today. This is the German industrial town which was recently fined 100,000,000 marks by the French. The municipal authorities refused to pay and French troops seized the town, but later evacuated it.

All the German police were arrested by the French and removed from the town today.

Germans Warn of Ruhr Uprising

Washington, March 2.—The German embassy in a formal statement today declared that should the population in the Ruhr, "already severely tried, let itself be led to acts of desperation, the German government, owing to the paralyzation by the French of the German official apparatus in the Ruhr, will not be in a position to guarantee the maintenance of peace and order in the occupied territory."

An atmosphere of high tension has gradually been created throughout the occupied zone, it was stated, which "causes the possibility to be feared that this atmosphere may in the near future lead to explosions."

"Ceaseless Efforts" of Pope to Prevent War

London, March 2 (By International News Service).—The Archbishop of Canterbury, highest prelate of the Anglican church, today rejected a suggestion made by Swedish bishops that the churchmen of the world invite President Harding to call a conference in an effort to mediate the Ruhr question.

A dispatch from Cologne quotes the Roman Catholic bishop of that diocese as saying Pope Pius XI. is making "ceaseless efforts" to secure peace in the Ruhr and prevent fighting between the French and Germans.

Ruhr Allies Complete Railroad Control

Dusseldorf, March 2 (By the Associated Press).—The Ruhr allies today have full authority to operate all railroad in the Ruhr and Rhineland with the exception of those in the Cologne area.

The railway administration is empowered to hire as many men as are needed, and most of these will be imported from Belgium and France. Several hundred Germans French officers assert, have requested work.

General Degoutte has ordered the collection of an internal revenue tax on all tobacco and spirits sold. Persons who refuse to pay this tax will be arrested and their places of business still be closed.

Bochum and Kettwig Fined Many Millions

Essen, March 2 (By the Associated Press).—Cities and towns throughout the Ruhr Valley are to be held responsible hereafter for sabotage or other acts of disorder designed to hinder the French and Belgian armies of occupation, and fines will accordingly be assessed, by order of General Degoutte, the French military chief in the district, it was announced today.

German officials of such towns will be liable to arrest and trial by court-martial in serious cases.

Bochum has been fined 2,000,000 marks as an outcome of German attacks upon French and German civilians. The fine was quickly collected. French troops swooped down on the Rathaus yesterday and took exactly the amount of the fine.

Kettwig, near Essen, where military telephone wires had been cut, was fined 1,000,000 marks. This sum has not yet been collected.

In Dusseldorf, Herr Wenzel, assistant director of posts and telegraphs, was sentenced to six months' imprisonment. He is charged with being implicated in sabotage on the military telephone apparatus.

The French and Belgian forces of occupation are adding to their rolling stock for operation of the German railroads. Yesterday, at Mulheim, French troops seized 115 locomotives, 60 carloads of coke, 30 carloads of coal and the roundhouse and repair shops.

GLAD TO BE BACK IN LAND OF "HE MEN"

MISS GRACE RAMSAY

Add another to the "land of—" descriptions of America. America long has been "land of the free," "land of opportunity—," "land of wealth" and now it's the "land of he-men."

Miss Grace Ramsay of No. 45 Walnut street, Somerville, is coiner of the latest "land of—"

She returned from Copenhagen on the Oscar II, landing in New York. So rejoiced was she to be home that she declared she was "the happiest woman in the whole world."

MALE GOLD DIGGERS.

"It's great to be back in the land of he-men," she said. "Europe has a monopoly on the male gold diggers of the world. They take you to tea and before the waiter arrives questions about your bankroll and ability to exercise it are asked.

"I got so many proposals of marriage that I can't remember them all."

ALREADY ENGAGED.

Right here is the place to say that Miss Ramsay has no interest in further proposals. She accepted one some time ago from a man from the "land of he-men," but who is now abroad.

She will return next month, she says, to Florence, Italy, where, in May, she will become the bride of Frank Glassey, American consul at Hellingfors. He is to be the next consul at Florence. Glassey is a former Boston reporter. He is twenty-four years old, the same age as his intended. The two fell in love while he was studying at Tech two years ago.

CONFESSED IN TEXAS COURT

Told Judge Membership In Order Would Not Affect Their Judgment

Houston, Tex., March 2.—Six members of the Ku Klux Klan are serving on the Federal Grand Jury which indicted E. Y. Clarke, former Acting Imperial Wizard of the Klan, of a charge of violating the Mann Act.

Prior to swearing in the jury, Judge Hutcheson questioned each man as to his possible connection with the Ku Klux Klan. The six said they were Klansmen, but denied that such membership would affect their judgment.

The indictment against Clarke gave few details concerning the charges made. It was understood the alleged violation occurred February 11, 1921. Clarke was in New Orleans at the time with Imperial Wizard Simmons, ostensibly in attendance on some meeting of Klan chiefs. He previously had been in Houston with Wizard Simmons, where it is alleged he met the young woman, who is named in the indictment.

Atlanta, Ga., March 2.—While awaiting additional information concerning a warrant said to have been issued for his arrest in Houston, Tex., charging him with violation of the Mann Act, E. Y. Clarke, former acting imperial wizard of the Ku Klux Klan, maintained an attitude of confidence that he would be fully vindicated when the matter goes to trial.

The former high official of the Klan was still at liberty early today, no warrant having been received here for his arrest.

"It is simply another effort to attempt to discredit me and through discrediting me damage the knights of the K. K. K.," Mr. Clarke asserted.

MARANSI CASE DEFENCE OPENS CHARGE SLAIN

the men had battered down the door and rushed into the house.

Big Leo, Scharton claims, rushed up to Carlucci with a gun in his hand and yelled, "Hands up. I've got you now."

Then there were several shots fired. When the smoke cleared, Big Leo lay dead on the floor. Carlucci escaped by way of the fire escape.

The next day he gave himself up to the police.

Attorney Scharton, in his outline, did not develop whether it was Carlucci who fired the shot that killed Big Leo.

Apologizing for speaking scandal of a dead man, he referred to Big Leo Marangi as a procurer, a gunman, a bootlegger and a thief. He said he would prove that Marangi had no decent occupation, and that Carlucci was of steady habits and kept away from the gunmen of the district. He told the court he had himself employed Carlucci as a chauffeur.

PROBE CAUSE OF FATAL FIRE ON DESTROYER

Manila, March 2. (By Associated Press).—It was just after the destroyer Hulbert took the Asiatic fleet speed trophy by making 35 knots an hour yesterday, that tragedy came aboard to chill the pride of the crew. Six enlisted men were killed by an explosion in the boiler room.

Naval authorities had been unable to determine the exact cause. Two theories were advanced—the first that when a fireman, attempted to open the fuel valve of a faulty burner, the oil instead of flowing into the firebox, spurted against the boilermead, spraying the room and setting fire to the paint.

The other possible explanation is that there was a flareback of burning oil, which ignited the paint, forming a gas that suffocated the sailors.

The bodies of the six victims will be sent to Mare Island, California, for burial.

Amsterdam—A Vienna dispatch says Colonel Causer, an American, has been appointed commissioner of the Austrian railroads.

PASTOR'S DAUGHTER TO STAR ON STAGE

New York, March 2. — Alyce McCormick, who was recently voted the most beautiful girl in Nebraska from among 10,000 contestants, and who came to New York to represent her State and "Miss Omaha" in the National Fashion Show, will make her debut on the stage Monday night in a specially written part in "The Dancing Girl" at the Winter Garden. She has been signed to a long term contract by the Shuberts, which calls for her appearance in a succession of musical plays. Miss McCormick is the daughter of Rev. F. A. McCormick, of Omaha.

HARVEY DEBT VIEW OFFICIALLY O. K'D

Washington, March 1.—Ambassador Harvey voiced the sentiment of the Harding administration in his London address on the subject of the war debt. It was learned in official circles.

The speech was primarily designed as a repudiation of the recent utterances of Earl Balfour that this government compelled Great Britain to guarantee payment of all the money America advanced during the war, it was said. The treasury has frequently stated this fact unofficially and the conclusion of the British debt negotiation offered the first opportunity for the United States to make a formal statement without prejudicing its case.

Ambassador Harvey.

ACTOR CHOPPED UP CLOTHES, SAYS WIFE

New York, March 2.—It became known today that William Kent of the "Good Morning Dearie" company, now at the Broad Street Theatre, Newark, is being sued for separation by Elsie Kent, who before her marriage was a comedienne appearing under her maiden name of Ethel Lockett. Her attorney is Harry Heckheimer. Mrs. Kent alleges her husband beat her, threw her out of hotels, chopped up her clothes and that he is a habitual drunkard. Mrs. Kent says her husband's earning capacity is $1,000 a week, and she asks for $300 a week alimony.

ROBINS CAROL, PUSSY WILLOWS BUD IN MIDDLESEX

Signs of an early Spring are making their appearance in Middlesex County. Flocks of robins and blue jays are reported from many sections. Pussy willows are budding and the deep snow is disappearing.

Farmers say there is very little frost in the ground because of the early snow. This will reduce floods because the water from the melting snow and ice will be partly carried off into the ground.

CHARGES AUDITOR BREAKS TAX LAW

City Auditor Rupert S. Carven has repeatedly violated the law in his method of disposing of the several millions of dollars of back taxes collected by the city every year, according to charges made by the Boston Finance Commission today in a letter to the Legislative Committee on Municipal Finance.

Carven turns over the millions of back taxes at the beginning of every year to the Assessors, who use it as a basis of determining the tax rate for that year.

The Finance Commission declares that Carven violates the law by failing to turn over the additional back taxes which are collected between the first of the year and the succeeding August, when the tax rate is determined.

The Commission does not charge that Carven makes any improper use of the money.

CHAMBER MEMBERS ARE SUED FOR FEES

Gloucester, March 2.—The Board of Directors of the Gloucester Chamber of Commerce today turned over to their attorney a long list of members who have failed to pay their membership fee. Proceedings will be begun against these men. Many of the delinquents are members who joined in 1921 on a three-year contract at a yearly fee of $25. They allege that although the contract may call for three years, they were really signing for only one year.

2 PITTSBURGH DRY AGENTS SUSPENDED

Pittsburgh, March 2.—Upon orders of Prohibition Commissioner Roy A. Haynes, two agents attached to the Pittsburgh unit have been suspended. The suspension is regarded as the Treasury Department's first step of an inquiry into the reported sale of nearly 2,000 barrels of beer ordered destroyed by the Federal Court.

FIND OLD ORCHARD CHIEF DEAD IN BED

Old Orchard, Me., March. 3.—Elmer E. Googins, sixty years old, for thirty years chief of police in Old Orchard and widely known by Summer residents, was found dead in bed today. He was heard to cough from his room at 5 o'clock. A few hours later he was found dead, investigation being made as to why he did not report for breakfast. He retired last night in his usual health. Death was due to natural causes.

NORWEGIAN CABINET QUITS ON WINE ISSUE

Christiania, March 2. (By Associated Press).—The Norwegian government has resigned following rejection by the Storthing of its proposal for a commercial treaty with Portugal. The proposal was voted down, 113 to 32.

$66,000 GEMS STOLEN FROM SALESMEN

New York, March 2.—New York police today were confronted with another mysterious jewelry robbery, in which $66,000 in gems disappeared.

Three armed men invaded the jewelry shop of Max Some at No. 49 Delancey street, bound and gagged Some, made captive a diamond salesman who called, and looted the office and the pockets of the two of jewels, gold, Liberty bonds and cash. The trio escaped long before the night of the victims was discovered, leaving behind them no clue on the enforced transaction.

save a meagre description that they were swarthy foreigners.

Of the loss, Some bore $50,000. He had to borrow car fare to get to his home. Uncut diamonds, bar pins, rings and bracelets, his own watch and his daughter's, which he had brought downtown for repairs, and some coin and currency made up the plunder of which the robbers rifled him. Most of the treasure came from his safe in a back room.

Charles Landau, a jewelry salesman, was forced to surrender $16,000 in uncut diamonds. His watch and money went to join the collection, but the robbers relented to the extent of flinging him a dollar from his wallet, which they then emptied and tossed to the floor.

The robbers got about $150 in cash. Solicitous inquiry by their despoilers brought an admission from each man that he was insured for about $15,000, whereupon one of the trio assured that they needn't worry, as no doubt they would claim the night of the victims was discovered, leaving behind them no clue on the enforced transaction.

GRECIANS HALT EXCHANGE OF PRISONERS

Athens, March 2.—The Greek Cabinet announces that in view of the continued deportation of Pontus Greeks by the Kemalists, it has decided to suspend the exchange of Turkish civilian prisoners which was to have started yesterday.

This action was taken after H. C. Jaquith, director of the Near East Relief at Constantinople, had informed the ministers that 25,000 Greek refugees were concentrated in Constantinople, being crowded in inadequate barracks. Mr. Jaquith said the refugees were suffering from disease to such an extent that the situation was entirely beyond the control of the group of American physicians and nurses under Dr. Wilfred Post of Boston.

The Near East Relief today received a telegram from Samsoun, asserting that 11,000 refugees were gathered there awaiting transportation. The message added that the Turks were looking upon the immediate departure of the refugees because of the danger from epidemics.

U. S. Soldiers Not Executed Without Trial, Is Verdict

Washington, March 2.—Charges that American soldiers in France were executed without trial or courtmartials, were declared to have been without foundation in a report filed in the Senate by the special committee which investigated. The report was filed by all the other members, who were: Willis of Ohio, Overman of North Carolina, Shields of Tennessee and Ernst of Kentucky.

The charges were made in open session of the Senate early last year by the late Senator Tom Watson of Georgia.

POLICEMAN SAVES BROTHERS AT FIRE

Providence, March 2.—Gennardo and Antonio Sciano, brothers, escaped from their burning home at No. 1118 Atwell's avenue, after they had been aroused by Policeman James Langton. They were nearly overcome by smoke when they were awakened and they left the house in their nightclothes.

SPEEDING AUTO KILLS THREE; BANKER HELD

Philadelphia, March 2. — Two women and a man were killed today when an automobile, traveling at high speed, struck them as they were alighting from a trolley car in West Philadelphia. The driver of the machine rushed away.

Twenty minutes later Henry G. Brock, banker, clubman and member of a widely known Philadelphia family, was found four blocks from the scene of the killing, standing beside a blood-spattered motorcar, wrecked against a pole. He was arrested on a charge of reckless driving.

A fur neckpiece worn by one of the women was found wedged between the mudguard and the radiator of the car. A barrette was embedded in the radiator.

The dead are Mrs. Ellen O'Donnell, 65 years old; Leo O'Donnell, 29, her son, and Miss Mary Murphy, 18, a friend of the O'Donnell family. They were returning home from a birthday party for Mrs. O'Donnell's daughter, Mrs. Clara Hart.

Brock denied knowledge of the accident.

TRAVELING SALESMEN TO FIGHT FOR MILEAGE BOOKS

RAILROADS ATTACK RULING

Business Men See $60,000,000 Saving in Interstate Commerce Board Order

New York, March 2.—A million traveling salesmen of America will fight an attempt by railroads to frustrate the recent Interstate Commerce Commission order restoring mileage books, President A. M. Loeb of the National Council of the Traveling Salesmen's Association, said today.

Emphasizing the traveling man's determination to fight any move by carrier roads to nullify the commission's order, President Loeb said: "It was the usual custom of railroads to oppose measures which were in the mutual interest of the general public and themselves."

SAVE $60,000,000 YEARLY.

He said the history of American railway operation disclosed that carriers only wished to have rulings which benefited themselves alone.

President Loeb estimated that the interchangeable mileage book ordered into effect March 15 will save $60,000,000 a year in the cost of doing business, and that the reduction in the high cost of traveling will benefit the roads through increased business. More traveling will be done at a lower cost by salesmen, Loeb said, more orders obtained and thus more freight business will be created for railways.

ROADS FIGHT RULING.

A mass meeting in protest against the carriers' stand will be held here Friday night, since the traveling men believe it is possible that the railways will seek a new hearing or injunction to prevent carrying into effect the Interstate Commerce Commission's order.

Letters have been sent by the railways to the stockholders asking them to voice opposition to the ordered reduction.

Girl Saved in Fire by 'Grandma'

CATHERINE O'NEIL

Five-year-old Catherine O'Neil of No. 113 Adams street, Malden, "loves grandma" more than ever today, for "grandma" rescued her from fire and smoke.

Catherine was visiting her grandmother, Mrs. Catherine O'Connor, at the later's home on Highland avenue, Malden.

When smoke from a burning chimney rolled into the apartment Mrs O'Connor took out little Catherine. Then the grandmother returned to her apartment and was herself overcome by smoke. She was taken out by Frank J. Reardon, electrician, working on a nearby building.

WORCESTER BOY FINDS FIANCEE "MARRIED"

Worcester, March 2.—Philip M. Osborne, twenty years old, broke his engagement, when, from the archives of City Hall, was produced a marriage certificate granted three years ago to Miss Hazel Martin. That is his fiancee's name.

The trouble-making marriage certificate showed that Hazel Martin and Ernest St. Lawrence of Hartford, Ct., were married October 26, 1920, in Hartford. Osborne's bride-to-be flatly denied that she was the girl of the marriage certificate but admitted having known St. Lawrence.

FISHERMEN IN BOOZE TRADE; OYSTERS UP

Newark, N. J., March 2.—(By International News Service)—An increase in the price of oysters and clams was attributed by dealers here today the fact that a majority of the fishermen have turned bootleggers.

Instead of working to dredge the mollusc from its watery bed, the fishermen used their time riding out to the "rum fleet" in motor boats or cruising along the boulevards in their limousines.

Island Paradise Is Free From "Triangles"

London, March 2.—A paradise free from the eternal triangle is disclosed by the census of the Orkney Islands.

It is the islet of Holm, in the mouth of Stromness Harbor, and the total number of inhabitants is two—a man and his wife.

Hunda, south of Kirkwall, has a population of three, while Coponshay boasts of seven.

The fisherman who formerly made $5 a day digging clams and oysters now make about that much an hour selling whiskey.

PRINCESS AND FIANCE RENT A COTTAGE

By GUGLIELMO MANUEL
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

Rome, March 2.—Princess Jolanda, daughter of King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Elena of Italy, and her future husband, Count de Bergolo, left today for Antibes to visit Jolanda's grandmother, former Queen Milena of Montenegro. It was Queen Milena who was instrumental in obtaining consent of the King and Queen for the match. Originally, they desired Jolanda to marry into one of the reigning families.

The wedding will take place at the Quirinal (the Roman Palace) early in April. The King and Queen wished it delayed until June, but the Princess and her fiance were anxious to have it hastened.

Instead of living in a palace, the prospective bride and groom have rented a small villa near Pinerolo, in a secluded spot, where they will live far away from the turmoil of everyday life.

The marriage ceremony will be conducted by the Royal Chaplain, assisted by several other clergymen, and according to the laws of the Roman Catholic Church.

Careless Shampooing Spoils the Hair

USE MULSIFIED

Soap should be used very carefully if you want to keep your hair looking its best. Many soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much free alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo (which is pure and greaseless), and is better than anything else you can use.

Two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulsified in a cup or glass with a little warm water is sufficient to cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub the Mulsified in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excess oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo at any pharmacy. It is very cheap, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulsified

QUEEN OF FOLLIES WANTS DARK CAVEMAN FOR HUSBAND

HE MUST NOT BE AN ACTOR

Shirley Vernon, Chosen as the Fairest of Ziegfeld's Troupe, Tells Her Choice

Shirley Vernon, seventeen years old, voted the most beautiful girl of all the "Follies" beauties by the Flo Ziegfeld's Follies Girls themselves, herewith exclusively tells for the Boston American the kind of men the Follies beauties want as husbands.

By SHIRLEY VERNON.
Written for Cosmopolitan News Service.

New York, March 2.—When I marry I want a great, strong, tall man,—a regular cave man, you might say. And from hearing the other Follies girls talking in the dressing rooms, I would say that is the kind of a man all the beauties want.

Why? Oh, he would seem so strong and protecting—a man I could admire and respect and trust. I hate a little weak man. He need not be good looking. We don't want male beauties, but he must be nice and strong.

The last person in the world I or any of the Follies girls would marry would be an actor. My goodness, just read the papers and find what kind of husbands they make. We want to be happy and we don't think we could be happily married to actors. They drift about with too many shows and meet too many other girls.

MONEY NO OBJECT.

I want my husband to be a business man—a strong, practical business man, and I don't care whether he has a lot of money or not. Of course money is nice, but if I loved him I would marry him with, or without money.

It's an old story that Follies girls always are looking for millionaires. I admit they talk somewhat about marrying millionaires, but not much.

The "stage door Johnny" has almost vanished. It's funny the way people think we girls walk out on a group of millionaires holding bouquets in their hands every night at the stage door. When my mother, Margaret Vernon, was a Follies girl in 1907, this was so, but today it's only fiction.

"Except for a few friends, husbands and brothers, who come to take some of the girls home, the rest go home with their mothers.

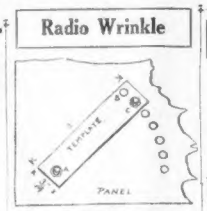
MUST BE TALL AND DARK.

Above all else a man must be tall to be popular with the Follies girls. We love to dance, more than anything and, therefore, we must have tall men.

Maybe because we Follies girls are mostly blondes that the dark man is by far the most popular among them. I wouldn't have any man but a dark one. I don't think I would give up my career today for love and a home. The cottage doesn't appeal to me that much.

"Of course, I haven't met "the man" yet. I'm just seventeen and don't expect to marry for some time. But when I do I'll go ahead with my career until I have made a name, and then I'll take the love and the home. I'm a strictly modern girl, you see, like the girls following any other line of work.

Radio Wrinkle



FOR DRILLING PANEL HOLES.

A template that makes the drilling of neat and accurate panel holes for switch points a pleasure. A loose rivet through the switch arm hole in the panel and through hole A in the template, and another rivet through the last switch hole drilled and hole C in the template holds the template accurately in place, while the hole B furnishes a guide for the next switchpoint hole to be drilled. Sent in by Lester E. Thompson of No. 219 Grant avenue, Medford, Mass.

Winner May Select His Own Prize in Radio Contest

Because of the mysterious shortage of WD-11 vacuum tubes, the Boston distributor of these tubes is no longer able to promise us delivery on them.

The free tube contest has been too successful to give up, so—

The fan sending in the best wrinkle this week will be allowed to choose any radio material he may desire up to the retail value of a WD-11 tube ($6.50).

Address: Radio Editor Boston American, 80 Summer street, Boston, Mass.

Kill Drunken Driver Bill

Leave to withdraw on the bill to provide for jail sentences for drunken auto drivers was reported by the legislative committe on legal affairs.

HOLE DRILLING IN PANELS IS MADE EASY

A template, made of a flat strip of iron, one-eighth inch thick, three-quarters inch wide and three inches long, drilled with three holes, will clear up the difficulties that surround drilling panel holes for switchpoints.

The holes B and C (see diagram) are drilled in the template at a distance from A equal to the radius of the switch arm that is to be used, while the distance from B to C is equal to the distance B is planned to put the switch points apart. All three holes are drilled with one-eighth inch drill.

"To use the template," says Mr. Thompson, "locate the position of the switch arm and the number of points. Drill a one-eighth inch hole at A first. Then slip a one-eighth inch rivet through hole A in template and the hole just drilled. Then drill a second hole in the panel at C, and again place a rivet through the two holes.

"A third hole may then be drilled at B. When this is done, the rivet may be removed from the second hole that was drilled in the panel, and without moving the rivet at A, the template may be moved up one hole, and a rivet placed through hole C in the template and the third hole in the panel.

"The template is now in position for drilling another switchpoint hole, and so on until the requisite number of holes have been drilled.

"After all holes are drilled, the hole A in the panel may be reamed out to the size required to insert the bushing of the contact switch. For the rivets I used brass round-head rivets, which are just one-eighth inch in diameter and about five-eighths inch long."

VICTIM ASSAILED IN WIRE TAPPER TRIAL

Wakefield, R. I., March 2.—Judge Mortimer A. Sullivan, counsel for George McKee, alleged wire tapper, on trial charged with robbing Edwin Meixner of $10,000 by fake pool room methods, assailed the character of Dr. Edwin Carman, a witness, during the hearing. He attempted to have Carman, who is also said to have been robbed by McKee, admit that certain stock he went to Providence to sell was practically worthless. Dr. Carman denied he went to the "White House" near Narragansett Pier to bet on horse races.

Orphans of Commerce

ON nearly every merchant's shelves are a few unknown left-overs. They have been there a long time. No one remembers just how long. Dingy, faded and soiled, they seem to be edging away from their more brightly dressed neighbors to a place of seclusion. There is a story behind these shabby little strangers.

A story of how once they were proud and new, dressed in clothes as gaudy and bright as the latest vial of perfume from Paris.

They were sold to the merchant by a salesman who knew their merits. For a time the merchant remembered their merits and told his customers. But little by little these merits were forgotten. The merchant, with his many items, slowly forgot even their names. New clerks never heard of them.

When some of their more fortunate shelf mates were advertised, merchants began to display these lines more prominently and shoppers selected the goods they became acquainted with through printers' ink, leaving uncalled for and unsold the unknown. It takes little effort and little time to sell goods which everyone knows about.

The shabby little orphans are gradually disappearing. They are being given away or thrown away to make room. Tomorrow they will be gone.

CELEBRATION OF PURIM, JOYOUS FESTIVAL

Jews all over the world today celebrated their most joyful festival of the year. Purim, commemorative of the escape of the children of Zion from threatened destruction in the time of Queen Esther.

Throughout the city Hebrew schools are holding special services, and the children are participating in historical and biblical pageants and plays, depicting the memorable encounter between David and Goliath, the story of Esther and Mordecai and Haman and Ahasuerus.

Based on an admonition in the Book of Esther that the poor and unfortunate be not forgotten, the Meyer Hayoord, or Palestine Foundation Fund, will make a countrywide appeal for funds during the Purim festival.

Alexander Brin, editor of the Jewish Advocate, speaking at Temple Ohabei Shalom, Union Park street, declared the Purim festival is the Jews' challenge to the world that Judaism can survive and that the Jew can be preserved in the midst of antagonistic environment.

The Boston Chapter of Hadassah, the woman's branch of the Zionist movement held their eleventh annual ball at the Hotel Somerset. It is known as the Purim Ball, and is the principal social event of the season among the Jewish residents.

ITALIAN EDITOR ARRESTED AS "RED"

Rome, Italy, March 2.—The government caused the arrest of Editor Asanti Serrati in Milan, as an agent of the Bolshevist government.

The Mussolini cabinet, in accordance with the Italian foreign policy against all military adventures, decided that it had approached the extente through France with a proposition for maintaining good relations between Jugo-Slavia, Turkey and the Balkans.

REPUBLICANS IN HILLS ARE BOMBED

Dublin, March 2.—A mine exploded outside the Roman Catholic pro-cathedral here during a mission service. Many women in the congregation fainted. The building was not damaged, but a telegraph pole was toppled over.

Belfast, March 2 (By International News Service).—Free State troops are violently bombing the positions of the Republicans under Commandant Boffin in the Arigna Hills, and a dispatch from that district today The Republicans' casualities are believed to be heavy.

Republicans in reprisal for the attack kidnaped civil officials and burned barracks at Carriaglen.

Boffin and his immediate followers were reported to be hiding in an abandoned mine shaft.

Three Free Staters were wounded in a skirmish with Republicans at Tipperary. An attempt to bomb Tipperary Cathedral failed.

In Louth, Free Staters are making an organized roundup of Republicans.

TWICE MARRIED PAIR IN DIVORCE COURT

New York, March 2.—After having been twice married to each other, Arthur J. Horwitz, booking agent, and his wife, Edythe Livingston Horwitz, vaudeville actress, are in matrimonial trouble. Mrs. Horwitz, before Supreme Court Justice Bijur, asked alimony of $300 weekly in an action for divorce. She says Horwitz's income last year was $67,000 and that his commissions are from $1,200 to $1,500 weekly. She names as corespondents Dorothy Clare and a Mrs. Arthur Wristen, vaudeville actresses.

DUBLIN PRESS SKEPTICAL ON LOWE'S PLAN

Dublin, March 2.—Commenting on the "peace and trade" mission of Francis J. Lowe, secretary of the friends of the Irish Free State, an American organization, the Freeman's Journal says today:

"We are willing to make allowances for the enthusiasts who mean well to Ireland, but the enthusiasm of F. J. Lowe is a little too much for us. The short cuts whereby he proposes to achieve the regeneration of Ireland leaves us, we confess, dazed and breathless.

"De Valera running a national museum on the hill of Tara, members of flying columns sorting themselves into college classes, and the desert blossoming like the rose at the behest of American millionaires, are all eminently desirable things. According to Mr. Lowe, we can get them as soon as we like after making peace.

"We fear that his proposals on this head will not commend themselves to our die-hards, and while it may be pleasant to contemplate an Ireland in which we should pay no taxes on tea or tobacco because American syndicates are pining, in Mr. Lowe's words, 'to shoe, feed and smoke the people of Ireland,' we have our doubts if these philanthropists are really going to change Ireland in the near future."

AMERICAN DIVORCEE TO MARRY PRINCE

Paris, March 2.—Another American woman will become a princess in May, when Mrs. Emily Stuart Wilzie, who obtained a divorce in 1921, becomes the bride of Prince Decleo, an old Roman aristocrat. It is understood that Ambassador Herrick will give the bride away and that the Italian ambassador will be the best man.

$7,000 FISH CARGO LANDED AT PORTLAND

Portland, Me., March 2.—A cargo of 28,000 pounds of fresh halibut and 5,000 pounds of salt fish landed here brought Captain Carl Olsen and the crew of the fishing vessel Ingomar $7,000. The vessel arrived from Green Banks after a month at sea and landed the first halibut here this season.

METHUEN MAN FREED AS DRAFT DESERTER

Walter Stamp of No. 39 Oakland street, Methuen, has been exonerated by the charge of draft desertion at the office of the judge advocate of the First Corps Area, as sufficient evidence was given, proving that he served in the Canadian Expeditionary forces from October, 1917, to November 25, 1918.

DIVORCED WIFE WANTS "ROMANTIC ROOFER" BACK

SEEKS TO SET ASIDE DECREE

Fitchburg Eloper Forgiven After Jail Sentence for Breaking Mann Act

Fitchburg, March 2.—Mrs. May Chambers announced that she plans today to seek annulment of the divorce decree nisi she obtained against her husband, Halfred, the "romantic roofer."

Five months ago Chambers stood in his automobile with Mrs. Elizabeth Miller, who left behind a husband and a daughter. Chambers deserted a wife and five small children.

Mrs. Miller

The elopers were caught in Baltimore. Chambers was convicted of violating the Mann act and was sentenced to three months in jail. He began a campaign to effect reconciliation with his wife.

Mrs. Miller returned to Fitchburg and was forgiven by her husband. Last week Chambers returned to his home, although his wife had gotten a divorce decree on the grounds of desertion and cruelty.

Elizabeth Caswell Joins Society Colony at Palm Beach, Betty Alden Hears

By BETTY ALDEN.

FROM Palm Beach comes the news that pretty Elizabeth Caswell—more familiarly known as "Sister"—has arrived at the balmy Southern resort and is stopping with Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Mitchell at the Reef Cottage.

"Sister" Caswell and her mother, Mrs. John Caswell, have a place on the North Shore at Beverly Farms, the Mitchells having a place farther along the Shore at Manchester.

Early in December—almost immediately after society had learned that "Sister's" engagement to Jasper Morgan of New York was "off"—Miss Caswell and her mother sailed for the Mediterranean. Last month reports drifted across the Atlantic that they were still undecided as to future plans, but that a trip through the mystic Nile valley was considered. And now dainty Elizabeth, with her fair hair and brown eyes, has joined the smart colony at "America's Riviera," as Palm Beach is commonly known.

SPEAKING of the Florida resort, no less than five hundred guests attended the annual fancy dress ball held the other night at the Everglades Club.

A host of dinners were given before the dance, Dr. and Mrs. Hobart Endicott Warren and the Leonard D. Ahls of Boston being included among the guests at Mrs. E. R. Thomas' dinner, one of the largest of the season.

Charles L. Harding, by the way, is expected to return to Boston from Palm Beach this week, after a stay of several weeks with Mrs. Harding at their villa.

MRS. AMORY CARHART (Isadora Bliss), formerly of Boston, gave a luncheon in New York at Pierre's the other day in honor of Mrs. J. Murray Mitchell. Mrs. Carhart is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester W. Bliss of Commonwealth avenue.

A PETITE woman with a flashing smile and sparkling vivacity is Mrs. A. Lynde Cochrane, who is to sing at the informal musicale being given at the Chilton Club on Sunday evening.

The accompanying picture shows Mrs Cochrane in rather a pensive pose, but she's really awfully jolly looking. She has light brown hair and gray-blue eyes—the kind that laugh and smile a lot.

Others who will divulge their artistic ability at the concert on Sunday evening are Mrs. Daniel de Menocal, Mrs. John E. Bolt, Madame Dallieres, Mrs. Mary Shaw Swain, George L. Foote and Richard Ames.

MISS ELIZABETH NEWBEGIN will have a dance given in her honor by Mr. and Mrs. Tarrant P. King and their daughter, Miss Dorothy King. The affair takes place on the nineteenth of the month at the Milton Club.

Miss Newbegin is the debutante daughter of the late Mrs. Edward H. Newbegin (Elizabeth W. King). She makes her home with her aunts, the Misses Caroline, Anne and Grace King, of No. 2 Sparks street, Cambridge.

KING TUT DANCE SCHEDULED AT FASHION SHOW

The dancing girls of ancient Egypt wore costumes composed chiefly of glass beads when they performed before old King "Tut," according to the latest directions from the expedition excavating there.

Miss Ethel Bon, the talented Roxbury high school girl, will have similar attire tomorrow night when she dances an Egyptian solo number at the fashion show in Winter Hill Ballroom, Somerville. The show will be given under auspices of the Madame Lyman School for Stage Children, assisted by Daniel Morey of the Back Bay School of Dancing.

Following her Egyptian dance Miss Bon will slip into a stunning afternoon frock—a modern version of Egyptian styles of 3,000 years ago.

Other pupils of the Lyman School who will appear as models in the fashion show are Miss Alice Webb, Marie Perkins, Marcia Kerns, Florence Stevens, Jane Loots, Ruth Sennott, Gertrude Westling, Hazel Murray, Olive Lester, Josephine Leonard, Eleanor Lee, Helen Nagle and James Madigan.

Among the shops whose goods will be displayed are the following: Vogue Toggery Shop, Kornfelds, Park Snow, Inc., Emersons' Baby Shop, Maurice, and gowns and sunshades by Jessie M. Copp.

General dancing will follow the show.

NEWCASTLE ASKS APOLOGY TO U. S.

London, March 2.—A dispatch from Newcastle says that the merchants there are shocked at the refusal of the United States to receive the consulate following the recent unpleasantness. They will appoint a committee to request the British Government to make an apology, but in view of the unchangeable attitude of the foreign office it is believed this action will be unavailing.

BROCKTON GIRL ATTACKER JAILED

Brockton, March 2.—Following return of a jury verdict finding Harry E. Carlson, thirty-three years old, of No. 37 Elm street, guilty of attacking Miss Susan M. Reardon, sixteen years old, Judge Stanley E. Qua sentenced Carlson to from three to six years in State Prison. Miss Reardon testified that Carlson enticed her to a room.

MISS BRASLAU IN FINE FORM AT CONCERT

By ZOE FABER.

Sophie Braslau, contralto of the Metropolitan Opera Company, and Albert Spalding, violinist, gave one of the most poorly supported and at the same time one of the most enjoyable concerts in weeks at Symphony Hall. The concert was under the auspices of the Business Women's Club.

Unusually good work was done by the two accompanists—Mrs. Edith Cave-Cole for Miss Braslau and Andre Benoist for Mr. Spalding. Such accompanying is a delight.

The most striking thing that Miss Braslau sang was the Schubert "Erl King," which she does as well, if not better, than any other woman singing it today. By contrast, the frivolous "Ma L'ti Fatseur" was delightfully light and inconsequental.

Mr. Spalding was dealing in dozens. After half a dozen encores to one group, we lost count. And there were literally bows by the dozen. He was in very fine vein on this occasion, better than any other time we remember hearing him. The same is equally true of the singing of Sophie Braslau. Her big, resonant voice was really magnificent.

MOTHER GAINS WISH THAT GIRL DIE FIRST

Lynn, March 2.—One week after the death of her daughter, Miss Marion Goss, her mother, Mrs. Edith G. Goss, fifty years old, died at her home, No. 43 Elm street. The daughter had been nurse for the mother during her lingering illness and several times the mother had expressed the wish that her daughter die before her.

The daughter died of pneumonia and before Mrs. Goss passed away she expressed her happiness that her wish in regard to the death had been gratified.

WEST MEDWAY YOUTH JAILED FOR THEFT

Milford, March 2.—John Gorman twenty years old, residing in West Medway, was sentenced by Judge Dos in Franklin District Court to the Concord reformatory, the sentence being suspended until September 6. He was charged with larceny of $210 from Mrs. Harry Newton, at whose home he boarded. He was arrested in Laconia, N. H., and $170 recovered.

FOUR ARE HURT IN DETROIT BLAST

By International News Service

Detroit, March 3.—Four persons were injured seriously, two of them possibly fatally, today, when molten metal exploded in a blast furnace at the Hanna Furnace Company's plant, River Rouge. The damage was $25,000.

The ore steamer Bradley, tied up at the dock, a distance of 200 feet from the plant, caught fire. The blaze was quickly extinguished.

ECLIPSE OF MOON VISIBLE TONIGHT

Chicago, March 2. — By carefully observing, you will note a three-eighths eclipse of the moon tonight, the only solar shadow phenomenon visible in eastern and central portions of North America during 1923. First signs of obscurence should be noticeable about 9:28 (Eastern time), starting at the northeastern portion. The shadow will leave the northwestern surface at 11:36 p. m.

CLOSED BANK BILL KILLED AT HEARING

The legislative committee on banks and banking killed a bill which places liquidation of closed trust companies in the hands of the depositors. James E. O'Connell, former officer of the Hanover Trust Company, was the principal speaker for the bill. He said that under the present method of liquidation depositors do not get a square deal.

EAST BOSTON SCHOOL TO PRESENT OPERA

Emilia Ippahto

East Boston residents will have an opportunity to hear fifty young men and women of that section in an operatic performance at Jordan Hall next Monday night, when the vocal school of Mme. Emilia Ippahto will stage the opera "Cavalleria Rusticana" (Mascagni).

The performance will mark the first presentation of the play by an entire student body of an amateur vocal school and great palms have been taken to make the production a success.

Joseph Maurano, a tenor of note, heads the cast. For many years his friends have been urging him to enter the operatic field.

Miss Ersilia Maddock of Dorchester, contralto, and Herbert Sheehan of East Boston are included in the principals. Four teachers of the East Boston public schools will be included in the chorus.

MRS. BEAN SORRY SHE HAD NO OPPORTUNITY TO FIGHT ACCUSERS

KNEW SHE WOULD BE FREED

Woman Acquitted of Husband's Murder Declares She Had Clear Conscience

By HAROLD R. HALL.

Farmington, Me., March 2.—"I wish the defence had gone on and cleared up some of the insinuations cast by State witnesses. Of course I am glad to be free. But I knew if the truth were told there would be no other outcome.

"I have never had the slightest fear from the time of my arrest. I had a clear conscience. Oh, it is simply wonderful, though, to have it all over."

With her face wreathed in smiles Mrs. Ethel H. Bean sat in her room at the Stoddard House here today a few minutes after she had been freed of the charge of the murder of her husband and spoke to newspaper men.

She showed the effects of the strain. There were lines of care her smiles could not erase.

BANKED WITH FLOWERS.

When she reached her room she found it banked with flowers her friends had sent in anticipation of her being freed today.

Discussing the murder case, Mrs. Bean said:

"The scratches witnesses said were on my husband's face the morning after he had been to a dance was not true. There was not a scratch on his face and we did not have trouble.

"I had two witnesses from New Jersey to refute that testimony. They were guided that day by Mr. Bean and knew he had no scratches on his face.

"The attempt of the State to show there was another woman in the life of my husband was a surprise to me. I never dreamed there was anyone else who had a claim to his heart. That is silly. There was no other woman.

PORTLAND GRILLING.

"I loved my husband and he loved me. We always loved each other. There was never even a misunderstanding between us. We loved each other for many years.

"The grilling in Portland on New Year's Day was terrible. I shall never forget it. Mr. Holman tried to make me sign that confession, but I would never have signed it if they had kept me there a year.

"Mr. Holman shook his finger right under my nose and said: 'Ethel, you are a liar.' I thanked him."

"Again he shook his finger in my face and said: 'Ethel, you lie.' I said, 'Thank you.'

"He was determined I should sign that confession. I told him I would sign it 'Mrs. Ethel H. Bean—not guilty.'

"The statement in court that I said I would sign it if I would not be arrested until after my sister's wedding was a lie. I never said that.

"The whole business—this attempt to convict me of shooting the man I loved—I know was inspired by a couple in the neighborhood who did not like me. It was their stories that were circulated and which resulted in my terrible ordeal. I will not name them. Let it go as it is.

"I was not guilty and the way the case went proved it beyond the faintest doubt.

"I have to laugh when I think of being accused of taking a gun from a neighbor's house to shoot my husband. I had a gun in my own house all of the time. I could have used that had I wanted a gun.

"I never shot off but two cartridges in my life. I could not use a gun alone if I had to. It is a joke. I never handled a gun. I never went hunting as was said on the witness stand. Imagine me shooting a man.

"I plan to go back to Portland with my sister, Mrs. Hollis. I am going to rest until Summer and then I am going to work and try to forget this horrible experience.

"My friends have been wonderful to me during my sad experience. They stood by me nobly. And I feel that I owe thanks to Sheriff Small for his testimony on the grilling in Portland. That helped.

"I felt from the first no case could be framed against me that would hold water. I knew I was innocent. I knew I had been arrested and accused because of nasty rumors spread by my enemies.

"But I had faith in the courts and knew justice would be given me and that I would be freed. An innocent person should not be convicted on evidence made up from rumors.

"I was stunned at first by the arrest and accusation. I could not believe it. Then when I realized what had happened I grew brave, for I knew truth would prevail."

ALBERT BEAN.

what Attorney-General Shaw was saying they could hardly wait for him to finish.

The moment the prosecutor stopped talking and even while the formal order freeing Mrs. Bean was being spoke by the court there was a roar of approval. Judge Dunn was unable to silence it. Deputy Sheriffs rushed among the spectators with commands for quiet.

When the deputies succeeded in quieting the demonstration Judge Dunn berated the spectators and declared that punishment would be meted out to any others who attempted a demonstration.

It was 9:35 o'clock when Attorney-General R. Shaw arose and addressed the court.

"Your Honor, since the recess you ordered yesterday," he said, "I have reviewed the evidence that has been presented by the State carefully. I also have investigated and found through the assistance of the County Attorney C. G. Holman and the sheriff of Franklin County that I have brought all the evidence I can find in this case. After which I thought it over carefully and decided that there is not sufficient evidence to support or uphold a verdict of guilty in the case.

"The State has relied on circumstantial evidence. Other matters must be proved in a case such as this. They have not been proved."

Clerk Byron Small ordered Mrs. Bean to stand. She arose, pale and trembling and faced the court. It was a dramatic moment. There was a hush. Then:

"Mrs. Ethel H. Bean, the court orders you discharged without bail."

Mrs. Bean sank back in her chair. There was another moment of hush. Then came tremendous aplause. The friends of the freed woman were wild with joy.

KISSED BY AGED MOTHER.

Mrs. Bean faced the spectators as they applauded. A few minutes later she expressed her pleasure at the outcome of the trial. The Attorney-General then shook hands with her. He was followed by many of the spectators. Mrs. Bean then walked to the jury box and shook hands with the jurors.

Mrs. Nancy I. Russell, aged mother of the freed woman, threw her arms about her and kissed her in motherly fashion. Mrs. Frank E. Hollis of Portland, her sister, who has been in constant attendance upon her since she was indicted and arrested, early in February, shook her hand, hugged and kissed her.

An array of gun experts, medical experts and character witnesses, numbering twenty-five all told, were on hand, prepared to tell what they knew of the murder and to reveal the intimate details of the home life of the Bean family.

Mrs. Bean was ready to go the stand and tell the story of her life with Otis A. Bean. To tell how she loved him and how he loved her. In short, to refute all that State witnesses have testified to on the stand in the last three days of the trial.

which they started was our war, whereas we had nothing to do with it, until a stupid Kaiser threatened to sink American ships, and told us to keep off the ocean.

Every country in Europe hates this country. It is only a question of the degree of hate.

IN THAT "WORLD COURT" other nations will rule. A child seven years old might guess what kind of treatment that "court" would give us, in international questions affecting our pockets or our rights.

The President would not submit his own case to a court if he knew the cards and the decisions were stacked agnlust him.

This country has always been ready for fair arbitration, wherever arbitration is possible. That ought to do, without any world court for the present.

STONE AMAZED BY INTEREST IN CONVERSION

By FRED STONE.

Written for Universal Service.

Seattle, Wash., March 2.—I am more than surprised that a man who has tried all along to lead a Christian life, and probably has succeeded, should be the centre of so much comment, simply because it had occurred to him one day to make a statement, which unintentionally has become as public, that from now on he intended to do just a little bit more towards executing others that it was the right and proper thing to do.

For it seems the simple and natural thing to me that one whose life has been as blessed as mine has been to turn to the Supreme Being, who has made this possible.

Fred Stone.

I have dreamed of the time when the stage and the pulpit would work hand in hand for the good of all the world, and I hope this day has arrived.

I have been content in former times to be a passive sort of Christian, doing what I could for humanity as the occasion arose, but not searching for an opportunity to be of active service.

Of late, however, days have been around of my profession, which has included persons of high standing who have done considerable good to many all through their lives, and my pride emanates from the fact that the actor has risen from the ranks of a traveling mountebank and has taken his place among the foremost citizens of each and every community in which he resides.

You have only to consult your history to know that at every critical time and for every charitable purpose, when the stage has been appealed to, the actor has arisen to the occasion and given his unselfish assistance most unregrudgingly.

My talents in the theatre will be carried on just as before. I will give my best, as always, to my audiences, and with an added incentive, for I will do all I do for the glory of God.

DECLARE $300,000 TOO LITTLE FOR MEMORIAL

Providence, March 2.—The committee of 100 of the Chamber of Commerce has passed a resolution protesting against the City Council appropriating $300,000 for a memorial to soldiers and sailors of the World War. The protest is on the ground that the sum is too small for a suitable memorial. Many prominent citizens favor a memorial auditorium. The form or site of the proposed memorial have not been decided.

Bright Spots in Shadowland

MARIE PREVOST, the film actress who is a star with a pronounced twinkle, has all girls to watch their gentlemen friends and be sure that they are popular with children before saying yes to the inevitable question of marriage.

"If a girl is keeping company with a man," she observes, "she should study him carefully to see how well he takes to the kiddies and they to him. Children can be deceived, and their liking for a man is in his favor.

"Men feel this, too, trying hard to win the affection of the children related to their sweetheart. Some even pretend to like children when they don't, but the young ones are not fooled very often or for long."

Miss Prevost is to be seen in "Throw," the screen adaptation of Charles G. Norris' novel of marriage and divorce, at the Park Theatre next week.

GIFT BY MEIGHAN

LEPERS on the island of Canlios, off the coast of Panama, are to have the dreariness of their lives relieved somewhat in the future by motion pictures. Thomas Meighan has presented them a projection machine through arrangement with Senor Parras, president of the Republic of Panama, and films are to be sent from New York at regular intervals. The presentation of the machine to the leper colony by Mr. Meighan came about as a result of his recent stay in the republic while making scenes for his next Paramount picture, "The Ne'er-Do-Well."

AFTER PRESS AGENTS

FRITZI BRUNETTE, who is playing the leading part in Hugh Dierker's "The Other Side," is after the scalps of that class of press agents who are forever clamoring to change an actress' name. When Miss Brunette came to the screen it was from her home town, Savannah, Ga., where she had been known as Florence Brunet. Her family was French, but the first studio press agent she met happened to be a Scandinavian whom it came to a matter of French accents and the like. Furthermore he had just been divorced from his wife, whose name was Florence, so the name was anathema to him.

HARMONY'S IMPRESSIONS OF GILCHRIST COMPANY'S "TOWN MEETING"

OFFICERS ARE INSTALLED BY CO-WORKERS

The newly-elected officers of the Gilchrist Association, an organization composed entirely of employes of the Gilchrist store, were inducted at a "town meeting" featured by vigorous argument relative to the amendment of the constitution.

President C. C. Perris of the Gilchrist Company inducted these officers: E. F. Putnam, president; Adam T. Hughhill, vice-president; Robert Hennig, second vice-president; James T. Chase, treasurer; Romas S. Nickerson, secretary, and Kileen O'Brien, executive secretary. Then followed discussion of the amendment, submitted by three officers. This was intended to restrict the office of president to men or women who had served on the board of directors.

F. S. Leavitt, a director, explained: "This amendment will prevent someone coming into the Gilchrist store from the outside and springing into the presidency."

A. E. Stephens, Louis Campbell and E. G. Borjes spoke against the amendment. Jack Kennedy and Adam T. Hughhill spoke in favor. Felix Vorenberg, a director of the association and vice-president of the Gilchrist Company, complimented the members on the enthusiasm shown at the meeting.

ASQUITH REDUCES CANADA'S CLAIM

London, March 2.—The Times says that former Premier Asquith, arbitrator appointed by Great Britain and Canada, has decided that Canada is entitled to only $8,000,000, instead of the $32,000,000 claimed on account of the difference in the rates of exchange.

Kellogg's Bran is Guaranteed to give relief BECAUSE IT IS ALL BRAN!
Relief from constipation, whether it be mild or chronic, will follow the regular, everyday eating of Kellogg's Bran. We have thousands of letters from former sufferers who tell us that this natural "bulk-action" of the wonderful cereal product has given relief they have not known for years. We guarantee that Kellogg's Bran will free the system from constipation because it is ALL BRAN—not a composition in which bran is added. If constipation is to be permanently relieved, you must eat ALL BRAN—that's why your physician will recommend Kellogg's for constipation.
Constipation creates toxic conditions which poison the blood and every organ of the body. It slows you down mentally and physically, and creates sick headaches, nausea, bad breath, pimples—finally, in many cases, leading to Bright's disease, diabetes and other dreadful illnesses. You must fight constipation with Kellogg's Bran regularly if you want health!
You'll say Kellogg's Bran is really delicious—it has a nut-like flavor that appeals to the most fastidious appetite. Eat it as a cereal, sprinkled on hot or cold cereals or cooked with hot cereals, allowing two tablespoonfuls of bran for each person. Be certain to eat at least two tablespoonfuls each day; as much with each meal in chronic cases. Kellogg's is delicious made into muffins, macaroons, raisin bread, griddle cakes. Recipes in every package. Kellogg's Bran is served by leading hotels, clubs and restaurants in individual packages. It is sold by all grocers.

FALL RIVER GIRL KILLED BY GAS

Fall River, March 2.—Fannie Thibault, aged eighteen was accidentally asphyxiated by illuminating gas while alone in her home, No. 71 Crescent street. The body was discovered by the girl's mother when she returned home after an absence of several hours. Near a gas heater, from which gas was escaping, was a chair upon which the girl was sitting. The medical examiner pronounced death due to accidental gas poisoning.

HUSBAND HELD AS THIEF AFTER WIFE'S DEATH

Providence, March 2.—An autopsy on the body of Mrs. Rose Panneton, who was found dead in a room at No. 149 Friendship street, on February 14, reveals that death was not due to alcoholism, as first supposed. Her husband, P. Henry Panneton, was found unconscious in the room with his wife.

Dr. W. H. Magill, who performed the autopsy, reports both her lungs were infected.

Panneton, at the present time, is in Rhode Island Hospital suffering from alcoholism and pneumonia. The police have a warrant for his arrest on a charge of breaking and entering the drug store of Blanding & Blanding, where he was formerly employed, and the larceny of alcohol. He will be arrested as soon as he is able to leave the hospital.

DRUGS EXCITE THE KIDNEYS, DRINK WATER
Take Jad Salts at First Sign of Acid Irritation or Backache
The American men and women must guard constantly against kidney trouble because we often eat too much rich food. Our blood is filled with acids which the kidneys strive to filter out; they weaken from overwork, become sluggish, the eliminative tissues clog and the result is kidney trouble, bladder weakness and a general decline in health.
When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead or your back hurts; if you suffer with sick headache, or dizzy, nervous spells, acid stomach, or if you have rheumatism when the weather is bad, begin drinking lots of good soft water and get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts. Take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine.
This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate clogged kidneys, to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer are a source of irritation, thus often relieving bladder disorders.
Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink and belongs in every household because nobody can make a mistake by having a good kidney flushing any time. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

DOPE PEDLAR CAUGHT AFTER BATTLE IN BOSTON HOTEL

$200,000 DRUG PLOT EXPOSED

U. S. Agents Trail Big Gang of Smugglers Operating From Canada

In the arrest of Leslie L. Hutchinson, World War veteran and medical school student, Federal narcotic agents believe that they are on the trail of the ring leaders of the biggest gang of dope smugglers that have ever operated in New England.

Nearly $200,000 worth of dope is said to have been received from Canada in the past few days.

Hutchinson, who was arraigned before United States Commissioner Hayes and held in $1,500 bail, was arrested by Federal Agents Henry L. O'Malley and Louis J. Kelly in the washroom of the Adams House after a stiff battle. In Hutchinson's room they found a jar containing seventeen ounces of cocaine, the largest individual seizure of the drug ever made in New England, worth $175 in marked money.

RECENTLY SMUGGLED IN.

The dope seized on Hutchinson is believed to be part of a shipment of thirty pounds of cocaine that has been coming in across the Canadian border recently.

This dope is now sold to peddlers in Boston for $5,000 a pound, but by reason of the large quantity smuggled the dope prices will be dropped. For thirty pounds it will be sold by peddlers to users at the usual rate of $1 a "deck," would bring in the neighborhood of $180,000.

Federal agents say that Hutchinson is one of the "big" men in the dope ring. He will buy narcotics in small quantities, they assert, and his dealings are in ounces and pounds, values of several thousand dollars.

TRACES DOPE TO BOSTON.

Federal Agent O'Malley secured the arrest of Hutchinson through an exceptionally fine piece of detective work. O'Malley has been working in northern Maine and along the Canadian border. He learned that a big shipment of cocaine was due to be smuggled across the line into Boston and he trailed it to Boston, where it was brought by special messenger.

Then he entered into negotiations with Hutchinson and offered to buy seventeen ounces from him for $375. The very fact that Hutchinson was willing to sell dope, which ordinarily would retail for $5,000 on the street, for a paltry $375 is evidence O'Malley said, that the supply locally had suddenly increased.

JAR HIDDEN IN CAMBRIDGE.

O'Malley met Hutchinson in the Adams House and the preliminaries of the deal were arranged. The two then went to a house on Norfolk street, Central square, Cambridge, and while O'Malley waited outside Hutchinson went into the house and secured the jar of cocaine. Then the Federal agent and Hutchinson walked to Broadway Park, where O'Malley paid over $100 to Hutchinson in marked bills, stating that the balance of the money was in an automobile in the rear of the Adams House.

Hutchinson then went to the Adams House and O'Malley followed him. O'Malley pretended to be a guest and registered. He arranged with Hutchinson to meet him at the desk after he had left the jar of cocaine in his safe in the room. Hutchinson left the jar in the safe at the Adams House and

Ralph Oyler and his Federal agents arrested this dope peddler in the act of selling dope. The scene is Times Square, N.Y., where the prisoner habitually did business. The time was 11.30 a. m. Hearst's International heard that the arrest probably would take place and had photographers ready to snap it. This picture is the only one ever taken of the actual commitment of a dope crime.

[In the March Issue]

A Cry From the Depths. "I am hoping against hope," writes Mrs. Frances Gascoigne, a girl dope-slave, to her master, John J. La Rose, a jail-bird and bird of prey, "that my stuff will come to-morrow . . . It just queers me in these towns to go to doctors . . . I am down to the coughing stage . . . If you don't send me the stuff, how can I be myself and if I am not myself how can I get the bellboys to get me to the men . . . Please, Johnny, don't let me suffer." . . .

This heartrending cry from the Underworld is one of the startling revelations in THE STORY OF DOPE. You think the dope traffic has no possible relation to YOU and YOUR life? Read this series and learn how its nefarious arms reach into the lives of millions.

Keep the Jews Out of Our Colleges? "They are Jokes. They are Shylocks. They swipe books. They pull [illegible]. They butt in. They carry Limburger cheese sandwiches in their pockets for lunch. They do not know the art of waistcoats, collars and forks." Such are the charges. Are these charges true? Should they be kept out of our colleges? How does the movement of exclusion or restriction square with our professions of democracy? This intensely interesting question, a question of nation-wide importance, is candidly discussed, with the facts, in the new series beginning this month.

Public Officials in the Ku Klux! You will be amazed at the number of Governors of States, Congressmen, Sheriffs, City Marshals and other public officials who are full-fledged members in the K.K.K. New revelations by Norman Hapgood of its menace to the lawful conduct of government.

Sherlock Holmes. Sir Conan Doyle brings the world's most famous detective back to solve a baffling mystery with all his old-time shrewdness.

Remember that these are but four of the twenty-five features of the March issue. IBANEZ, H. G. WELLS, ARNOLD BENNETT and LEROY SCOTT [illegible] the other brilliant story-tellers who contribute to this noteworthy March issue. And Hearst's INTERNATIONAL is not merely a magazine of ideas and entertainment. It is also a magazine of beauty. Sixty-nine of its one hundred and forty-four pages are printed in color.

Cognizance of the forward-moving spirit of Hearst's INTERNATIONAL has led a dynamic firm like McDOUGALL-BUTLER of Buffalo to tell its story in this magazine. Note the initial double page in the March issue—an exclusive presentation by James Wallen of an interesting business development.

Can a Magazine Combine Ideas and Thrills?

Hearst's INTERNATIONAL for March shouts a smashing "Yes!" in answer to that question .... And thousands of people are talking about it.

Hearst's INTERNATIONAL mingles mental stimulus and amusement. It is published for people who crave wider horizons—and love exciting plots.

Hearst's INTERNATIONAL has gathered a staff of expert reporters who are "going behind" the world's news. They are probing for the facts beneath the headlines, and for facts that never get into the headlines, yet more vital. They give you not abstract theory, not prejudice, but the facts themselves, accurately, conscientiously, but told as a story teller would tell them.

Thus they are helping us to understand men, movements, policies tendencies, that affect our homes, our businesses, our schools, our hopes, our future.

Hearst's INTERNATIONAL fiction is the kind that both delights the imagination and stirs the emotions. It fulfills the highest ideal of magazine fiction—stories that take us out of the rut of daily existence and at the same time widen our sympathies.

Do you want proof? Note the detailed description of four typical features from the March issue, out today.

There are twenty-five features in this issue—articles, serials, short stories, editorials, humor, reviews of theatre and books and art. But these four selected from the twenty-five will make clear to you why this magazine of Ideas-Plus-Amusement has grown in circulation already to nearly five hundred thousand.

Buy this issue and you will never willingly miss another

They're off!

At two o'clock this afternoon, Frank Chance, the scientific catcher and manager of baseball teams, and Harry Frazee, the good-natured Red Sox magnate, left the Copley-Plaza Hotel with several Boston baseball writers in their wake, and will be quartered in Boston baseball headquarters at Hot Springs, Ark., for the next month or so.

How long they will remain there depends entirely on the Red Sox players themselves. If they report in good condition, and show the proper spirit, they will be given a chance to show their wares in the Southern baseball city, but if they are not in shape to start the season right, they will be sent back to Boston immediately, to have their bodies toned up.

If they report in good condition, and show the proper spirit, they will be given a chance to show their wares in the Southern baseball city, but if they are not in shape to start the season right, they will be sent back to Boston immediately, to have their bodies toned up.

American League club [illegible]

Time was when the departure of the Red Sox aggregation would be a holiday. The whole town would be [illegible] thousands would be assembled [illegible] their given names [illegible] for the departing baseball joshing, and as the South-bound train got into [illegible] raiders gather with their [illegible] In some instances [illegible] accompany the [illegible] so great was [illegible] Boston Club.

No Such Demonstration Was Expected Today

No such demonstration was expected today.

In those halcyon days there were more locals and New Englanders with the Red Sox squad for the purpose of getting away.

In these days [illegible] Sox were invariably [illegible] there was each year a [illegible] organization of [illegible] a winner. That accounted for the presence of such a great day rooters.

In those bygone days the baseball authorities catered to the baseball enthusiasm, and arranged for as many as possible of the games to start [illegible] the Hub.

But Old Inspiration Lacking With Sox Down

But with the Sox in third place, as they were last year, and with no local or New England player on the [illegible] squad, and [illegible] present at the official departure, the old-time spirit is lacking.

However, it can be said that it is the aim of the Sox management to revive it.

Has a place to this end been made by the Chance-Frazee combination? Next week when he assembles his squad of thirty-two candidates for preliminary training and learns first hand the quality of the tools with which he will work.

Squad Is Far From All-Star Collection.

The squad [illegible] an all-star collection, but [illegible] a number of [illegible] and [illegible] farmers of experience [illegible] and others of promise and the managerial cunning that put the "Miracle Braves" club [illegible] to a championship may suffice in moulding a Red Sox outfit that will prove a real factor in the American League race.

Some indication of the team's ability will be shown while the squad is at Hot Springs for the concluding week of its stay there will be featured by a four game series with the Pittsburgh Pirates. Of course the pitchers scarcely will have rounded into mid-season form, nor will the sluggers have acquired the [illegible] gerial cunning that put the "Miracle Braves" club [illegible] to a championship may suffice in moulding a Red Sox outfit that will prove a real factor in the American League race.

Party Will Gain Two or Three at Albany

The small Red Sox party scheduled to board the train at the South Station will gain two or three additional members at Albany, and a dozen others at St. Louis, but the majority will move direct from their widely-scattered homes to the training camp—the battery men arriving Sunday or Monday and the infielders and outfielders reporting on or before March 9.

The members of the party leaving on the Southwestern Limited, are Mr. and Mrs. Frank Chance, Mrs. Barney Oldfield, Secretary Larry Graver, Pitcher Curtis Fullerton, and Scribe Charles E. Parker. Ed Cunningham, Fred Hoey, Melville Webb and Jack Maloney.

At Albany, Catcher Val Picinich and Pitcher Alex Ferguson and possibly one or two others, join the party.

BOSTON AMERICAN GOES WITH THE BALL CLUBS

Baseball starts today. Both Boston clubs go South And the American, up-to-date as usual, goes right along with them. Nick Flatley, baseball editor, will accompany the Braves to St. Petersburg, watch them train, and then come north with them to open the season. Charlie Parker, prominent sport expert, will go with the Red Sox to Hot Springs. He will tell you what Frank Chance does to rebuild that team. All the new players will be introduced and Boston fans will get the real "dope" on what to expect this Summer, which looms up as very promising for the baseball fan, who has been despairing 'round here for several years.

The fans are still talking about the recent Shade-Ward bout. There appears to be a general desire to see these famous welterweights in action again.

Eddie Shevlin is also demanding a bout with Shade. As the Roxbury professor has one victory to his credit over Shade, he believes he is entitled to first shot at the Californian.

There is also a possibility that Shevlin will battle Ward and the victor of this match will oppose Shade.

Shevlin is at Hanover, N. H., where he is keeping in condition by training Dartmouth's boxing class.

He ran out of the bout, either because he feared defeat or on account of his lame efforts to make good his claim that he was not fit to wrestle at Chicago. Cuza probably reasoned that he could not very well wrestle in Boston after having asserted he was not in condition to perform at Chicago.

"THE BLACK CROOK" was famous an' ladies used to hide an' turn their heads away when they passed by billboards showin the famous picture of the woman in black tights. An' how yer only wished yer was big enough to see the darned thing but no signs was allowed.

An' the pictures that was on the billboards advertisin' "Faust" an' how yer could tell by the four locations at once. Faust showed a fuckeltail duel with it from prong attendin' on the middle of Elbow while Marguerite was in the Garden.

An' both shows came to the Academy of Music while was on Main street up to the John M. Lennon high class grocery store which was located where yer fill up pipes in tobacco to be lit, fillin with fresh air yer used to love to stand an' look at the moon beams.

The height of yer ambition was to be a street sweeper. An' they didn't wear white an' wasn't called a "White Wing," but wore gunny clothes an' wore rubber boots an' never always smelled like a pipe full of hot coal tar an' a dollar's worth of sweets to a five cent fare. Many a time an' oft I've envied them an' wished I was one just to be able to chew on the end of a broom handle an' look important.

Yer was crazy boy in a shoe store. A new pair of rubbers was a regular out would mind and cost. An' he had a idea of how it all made a pair of an' every day he'd go down to the store an' be some nice. An' we'd go across Main street to Hutton's an' get it for nothin off dern old clerk so he'd every day get hard. Finley for some. An' we'd go in the candy store for about five cents worth of sweets to have one apiece an' we'd go to an old man by the name of Mr. Hutton's store.

"In the Shade of the Old Apple Tree" was the song an' yer never forget it. I know it was played on the piano in Saxton's Hall where we went. An' there was a old man by the name of Gerry and all actors in her an upstairs room.

I went into the Five and Ten Cent Store to buy a geege and we used to live next behind the counter. "How much are yer to-day?" says I. A couple of days passed and got all coffee and so I got fed up yer got mad an' said, "I mean see some, an' she says, "They're all dead," so I thought one thing and got as anything

Medbury Says---

By John P. Medbury

I used to be [illegible] a married person, but now [illegible] her daughter [illegible] a thousand for her [illegible]

A LOT of girls are so particular today that they want to [illegible] their own [illegible]

A MAN can't [illegible] or a dime [illegible] another man's money will get [illegible] what he is [illegible] are

ONE girl said to a [illegible] "If [illegible] you marry [illegible] and my [illegible] have for myself."

SHE figured [illegible] we'll keep [illegible]

ONE guy got turned down [illegible] because [illegible] her mother in order to be near the girl he loved.

HE was satisfied for her to refer to him as "Father" as long as she [illegible] him "Daddy."

BUT no girl will let her mother marry a man until she has [illegible]

SHE might not want him personally, but he'd be all right to [illegible] another's bill.

THE [illegible] figures that he will [illegible] she has a chance to [illegible] more.

IN case of love, marry the man you want, but in case of poverty take the first guy who comes along.

IT'S always best to marry an [illegible] doesn't mind [illegible] you can give him the [illegible] time you want.

BUT no girl should let a man marry her mother unless he can support them both in a manner to which they have been accustomed.

ONE dame spent so much time finding a husband for her mother that when it came [illegible] to get one for herself she was too old.

SHE resolved to marry the first one who could but nobody called.

THEN she got desperate and decided to marry [illegible] man ever [illegible] and married a [illegible] one.

IT spoiled her to think that she had to [illegible] life alone when her mother had company.

THE moral is: Marry the first guy who proposes and let your mother-in-law [illegible] when you're through with him.

WARNING—LOOK OUT FOR THAT FEVERISH PACE

If you can't turn out a lot of work a little [illegible] errors frequently, it is better to do less work and do it more perfectly.

Many persons are ambitious, and anxious to [illegible] that they work at a forced pace, the product of [illegible] of speed explains them. The [illegible] they make numerous mistakes which offset the good they [illegible] their industry and speed [illegible] made.

Often an irritable, driving boss or foreman is responsible for a condition of this sort in his establishment.

If he would be more calm—hold himself in better command, he would be able to communicate the spirit to those under him, with more production and better production as the result.

The rusher or plunger is an [illegible] person.

He does not need prodding—he needs holding down to the point where he will be more thoughtful and accurate.

The wise executive recognizes this fact, and he also recognizes that if such a person can be held down to slower speed he can turn out more and better work at his restricted speed than the easy-going, lazy person.

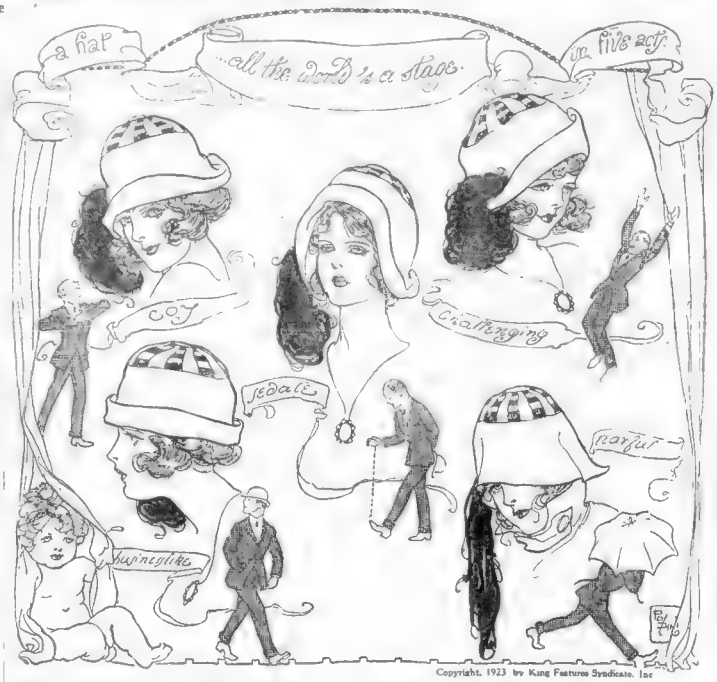
The Drama of a Hat -:- DRAWN BY POPINI



Copyright, 1923 by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

"WHAT a difference good clothes create! They may make a girl a beauty or a fright," many a girl declares. And many a man grimly smiles to himself as he sighs: "What a difference just a hat achieves! Ah, I know—I know to my perplexity!"

Consider one hat—just any hat! When she is coy, not her twinkling eyes, nor dimpling cheeks, nor rosebud mouth alone proclaim the fact which makes him pour out his words of love to her. When she is sedate, just a touch to its brim or a wee twist somewhere else and the most ... Puritanical ... ... free out—and he ... humbly ... of her hat and he throws up his hands, disarmed by its ... ... ven before he beholds her ... cusing eyes.

Even the skies seem weeping in accord with her hat when she is tearful and pretends to hide her woe—then, only an umbrella will do for him. When she's business-like—when her chapeau is situated a la its commercial slant—its four-square-to-the-winds-that-blow air proclaims to all the world that she means business—ah, well he knows there's no use to try to speak with her! Not even Cupid can sit him now.

And all because in this world that's all a stage there's a special drama written about her hat—the hats and the moods of every girl. —POPINI.

THE ENEMIES OF WOMEN By BLASCO IBANEZ

A Russian Prince of Fabulous Wealth and Some Friends Bind Themselves to Bar All Women From Lives

THE STORY TO DATE.

Prince Michael Fedor, a Russian of fabulous wealth, is at Monte Carlo while the Great War is on. With him is his friend, Aulio Castro, and other acquaintances. He announces, to the amazement of his hearers, that he is ruined. The Prince proposes that Castro and a few of their friends live together with the proviso that no women shall enter their lives. They will be known as "The Enemies of Women." Castro tells the Prince he has seen the Duchess de Delille. She calls at the Villa Sirena and asks the Prince to finance her gambling system. He refuses, but grows interested in her, and later calls at her home.

By Vicente Blasco Ibanez,
Author of "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse" and Other Novels of World Renown

THERE was a long silence. Michael looked at the room —woman's bedroom, still in disarray, with clothes lying on the armchairs, giving out perfume of a fastidious femininity. Through a narrow door he saw a corner of the adjoining bathroom, with a wet spot on the mosaic floor, remaining from the morning bath.

An odor of eau de cologne and tooth paste hung in the air. From several toilet jars, in disorder, vague scents of more precious essences were escaping. Mingling with the toilet articles and objects of intimate apparel, he could distinguish cards such as are given out to the patrons of the Casino to mark their plays; some with red or blue marks in the columns, others pricked with a hatpin, for lack of a pencil. He observed larger cards, with a roulette wheel indicating the numbers and colors, and also many books of the sort sold by the stationers and at newspaper stands; illuminating treatises on "How to Win Without Fail in All Kinds of Play."

On the mantelpiece, half hidden by various fashion magazines, was a small roulette wheel, a real one, used undoubtedly in studying out and trying various theories. On the lamp stand beside the bed the latest copy, of the Monte Carlo Review was lying open, with statistics of all the winning numbers during the last week at the various tables; interesting reading, with mysterious annotations, which had kept Alicia up perhaps till dawn.

An Encouragement

In the meantime, she was dexterously causing to disappear everything which she considered prejudicial to her appearance since the surprise. When Michael looked at her again the old gloves had vanished from her hands and the veil was hidden somewhere, leaving her hair free. It was black and lustrous, a trifle coarse, perhaps. It rose luxuriantly in large disordered ringlets.

They prolonged the silence with an embarrassed smile, as though neither of them could find a way of relieving the situation.

"Go on with your work," Michael said, somewhat timidly. "Now I'm here, I don't want to be in the way."

She, as though seeing a challenge to her embarrassment in these words and anxious at the same time to show her skillfulness, bent over the bed to continue her work. Michael regained his high spirits at this display of confidence. It wasn't chivalrous to allow her to work alone—he must help her.

"You! You!" exclaimed Alicia, laughing, as though such a proposition seemed to her unthinkable.

The Duchess de Delille and the duke decide to separate

He had gone over to the other side of the bed, and was imitating all the movements of the Duchess with comic exaggeration. He patted the pillows after her, with such violence as to make the bed resound. While she lifted it slightly toward her to shake it better, he lifted it completely with his strong hands.

"You don't know how! You don't know!" Alicia exclaimed with childish glee.

Then, noticing his fingers seizing the linen with a powerful grip, she added:

"Good heavens, let go of that! You'll tear the pillow, and just now, in these hard times!"

They both laughed, finding this work very amusing.

"Take hold!" she said in authoritative tones, and flung in his face a sheet that she was holding at the opposite side.

An Odd Experience

Michael found himself wrapped in a cloud of flimsy linen fragrant with feminine perfume. It was for an instant only, but to him it seemed like something extraordinary, of limitless duration, extending beyond the bounds of time and space. He had a presentiment that this insignificant event was going to be a turning point in his life. He felt his former self suddenly awaken with fresh vigor. He thought of Castro's ironic smile, and of himself, living like a hermit there in Villa Sirena and preaching hostility to women!

There was a buzing in his ears; his eyes, momentarily blinded, seemed to be gazing on a vast expanse of rosy sky, the pale, luscious rose color of a woman's flesh. There was something intoxicating in the sudden breath of her eyes and hung her head while a fit of sobbing shook her whole body.

SIGNS OF TEARS.

She was crying. It was enough that Michael should have discovered her recent weeping, to cause the tears to rise in her eyes, again renewing her former anguish. She gave in to her grief with a sort of cruel delight, finding it preferable to the torture of feigning, which his unexpected visit had imposed.

The Prince remained silent for a few moments.

"Is it for that young fellow of yours?" he mustered up courage to ask, with a shaking voice, as though he too were undergoing an unexplainable emotion.

She replied with a slight movement of her head, without taking her hands from her eyes. It was unnecessary for Michael to see them. He had guessed the truth. It could be only for him that she was weeping; the lack of news; the worry of thinking that he was a prisoner, far off, suffering all sorts of privations; and that perhaps she would never see him again.

"How you love him!"

The Prince was surprised himself at the tone of voice in which he spoke these words. There was a note of despair, envy, and sadness at the thought of the passing years, bequeathing to the coming generation the haughty privileges of youth.

that caused his brain to reel, communicating the sensation to his whole organism, as violently as though struck with a lash.

When the sheet had fallen back on the bed, Michael was deathly pale, with a look of intenseness gleaming in his eyes. She thought that he was angry at the jest, and she lauged mischievously, leaning on the pillow with her hands.

Suddenly the Prince found himself on the other side of the bed, close to Alicia. They both sat down on the edge of the bed, turning their backs on the forgotten sheet. He took one of her hands without realizing what he was doing. Then he bent so close to her face that one of her Medusa-like tresses brushed against his temple. He felt no desire to talk, but seeing her eyes so close to him he broke the pleasant silence.

"You have been weeping!"

Alicia protested with a strained smile and grew pale as she stammered excuses at the same time.

"You were crying when I came in," he continued, with insistent and troubled curiosity.

Now Alicia's protest took the form of a harsh shrill laugh that was decidedly forced and unnatural. And by one of those modulations of which only great actors know the secret the burst of her laughter died gradually into a sigh, then a groan, until letting go the Prince's hand, she covered

YOUR BEAUTY

NEW SERIES OF AUTHORITATIVE ARTICLES

By Maria Jeritza

The Famous Prima Donna of the Metropolitan Opera Company and One of the Most Beautiful Women of the Day.

THE woman who has an active, well-developed body because of her constructive thinking and enjoyment of exercise, usually possesses arms and legs that are symmetrically beautifully.

If, however, you need to build up or reduce the size of your lower limbs, you can easily do so.

There is probably no better all-around exercise than walking to increase the size of upper legs that are too thin. But do not start out with the idea of breaking speed records.

A mile or two if you walk at a comfortable, enjoyable gait every day regardless of the weather—provided of course you are in normal health—will help you ever so much more than a long, strenuous hike the first day, and then no walk at all for several days.

A pleasant companion—either a friend or a good dog friend—will make your walk more helpful because it will be more enjoyable.

When you start out to combat the winds, be sure your hat or cap is small and snugly comfortable, and that your clothing is lightweight, yet warm. Your Oxfords should also be stout and warm.

If it is stormy, don't forget your umbrella or raincoat and your rubbers.

Choose a pleasant route and vary your itinerary now and then. One day choose a road that leads past lovely homes and gardens. Another day walk down the smart avenue where shop windows and passersby vie with each other in luxurious attractiveness, while best of all will be the path through the park or along open spaces with big views and the loveliness of nature to rest you.

In addition, get plenty of sleep in a cool, well ventilated room, eat nourishing food and banish from your thoughts that useless and silly bogey called "anxiety."

If your problem, however, is to reduce your lower limbs in size your regime will be more strenuous. Your daily walk should be longer and faster in this case than that taken by the girl who is trying to build up her weight, and in addition you will need a daily run.

A good plan is to stand before the open window of your room and there go through all the movements of a brisk run except that you do not make progress. Lift up your knees well toward your waist and continue this running step until you are tired.

Systematic swimming, dancing, fencing and skipping the rope as you used to when a little girl are all excellent means of reducing the size of your upper legs. But one word of caution. Do not overexert yourself. Your common sense will tell you when to stop, before what should be fun becomes a physical strain.

FURNITURE IN HOME

By Marian Moore

DO not overload the mantel. That is the first commandment regarding fireplaces. The second one is that an odd number of articles should always be used, three or five being the regulation numbers.

The mantel in the picture bears five things, a pair of candlesticks, a pair of vases and a clock. Either the candlesticks or the vases could be eliminated and the harmony preserved, but taking away the clock would leave a monotonous, too much balanced arrangement.

The mahogany of the clock gives a pleasing contrast to the white surface of the mantel and further adds to the effect of perfect balance.

A Refined Mantel Setting

If there is a picture above the mantel none of the articles should be higher than the edge of the frame. If a mirror is placed instead of the picture, a high vase of flowers is permissible in order that the reflection may show.

The harmony of arrangement begun with the mantel should be carried out in the furniture about the fireplace, the best grouping being a reading chair at one side and a reading table and sofa at the other.

Much Fuss About Nothing

"WELL, of all things, Busy Bee! What in the world have you been wading through?" asked Gophy Gopher, as he chanced to spy Busy Bee humming around a rose bush. "Why your pretty little brown leggings are all covered with something yellow."

"Maybe your mother will punish you when you get home," said Browny Ant. "I know what I'd get if I went home all smeared up like that."

"Here, too," agreed Gophy Gopher. "I'd have to spend the day in bed, while my mother cleaned my leggings. You'd better come here and let us try to dust that stuff off."

"Think so?" buzzed Busy Bee, gayly going right on with his work. "Well, you see, my mama doesn't feel the way you do about it. The fact is, I'd be run out of camp if I didn't get my leggings covered with yellow stuff once in a while." And having gathered all he wanted, Busy Bee spread his pretty wings and sailed through the air.

"Funny mother that glories in her son getting his leggings dirty," growled Gophy Gopher. "Well, it's not my fault if he gets a whipping. I tried to save him."

"We should have brushed that yellow stuff from his clothes and no one would have been the wiser," sighed Browny Ant. "But that's the way with Busy Bee. He always was stubborn. It's funny the way he keeps getting his leggings so soiled! Where do you suppose he goes to get that stuff?"

"Can't say," replied Gophy Gopher, "but he certainly looks untidy running around that way —very careless and shiftless. My! I wouldn't dare go home looking like that."

"Like what?" asked a third voice, and Grandaddy Longlegs came toddling up to the gossiping fellows. "Go home looking what?"

"Why, like Busy Bee," replied Browny Ant. "Did you see him a few minutes ago?"

"His legs were covered with some kind of yellow stuff," replied Goph Gopher. "We wanted to clean them off, but he said his mother would be peeved if we did, or something like that."

"Why shouldn't she?" laughed Granddaddy Longlegs. "That's what she has him for. The yellow stuff he had on his legs was pollen, and if you had looked more closely you would have seen it was in his pockets."

"But it was on his face, on his legs!" cried Gophy Gopher.

"Well, you see, he isn't like you, Gophy," said Grandaddy Longlegs. "Busy Bee carries his pockets in his legs. You carry yours in your cheeks."

"You'd Better Come Here"

"No wonder he laughed at us," giggled Browny Ant. "You see, I don't bother with pockets, myself, so I never thought of his having any. On his legs! Ridiculous, how queer! I'm glad I haven't any pockets on my legs."

"And I'm glad I carry mine in my cheeks," chattered Gophy Gopher, and frisking his funny little tail, he turned and hurried home.

Grandaddy Longlegs mumbled something about "idle folks," and trotted off to the woods. Browny Ant, finding no one with whom to gossip, went on to the store.

OPENING A NURSERY

By Loretto C. Lynch—

An Acknowledged Expert in All Matters Appertaining to Household Management.

A RECENT article on the need of nurseries where a mother might leave her child while she shops, visits, rests or goes to the theatre has brought a host of letters to me. The question each letter asks is, "Just how does one go about opening such a place?"

In the first place, the woman who would mind children by the hour or day must be conveniently located. In other words, the woman who has an apartment in the heart of a residential neighborhood where most of the residents are young folks unable to keep a regular helper is in a much better position to start a project than many of the women who write and tell me they have a large home only an hour's ride from town with the usual country surroundings.

The young woman who wishes to leave her child in a kiddie coop for an hour while she goes away will not travel an hour in each direction to bring and call for her child. My first advice, therefore, is, if you are in earnest and you have not a good location, get one.

One or more of the physicians in the neighborhood who might vouch for your surroundings and yourself personally, will help greatly. You might go to your own family physician to whom you are well known and get his endorsement.

Once you begin to get your little guests, one satisfied mother will suggest your service to another.

No matter how much you may want to add to your income, it is bad policy to take any child which seems to be ill. It is wise to have a definite understanding with mothers leaving children and obtain permission to call a physician if you deem it necessary while the child is in your care. Be quite certain as to whether you are to feed the child, just what and when.

WHEN DID IT HAPPEN?

1—When did the Eighteenth Amendment to the Constitution go into effect?

2—When did the explosion of a munition ship badly damage the harbor at Halifax, N. S.?

3—When was Brazil discovered?

4—When were the famous pyramids in Egypt built?

5—When was the first practical iron plough patented?

ANSWERS

To Yesterday's Questions.

1—The steam hammer was invented by James Nasmyth, in 1843.

2—The Thirty Years' War took place from 1618 to 1648.

3—South Dakota was admitted to the Union as a State in 1889.

4—The Treaty of Seville, between Great Britain, Spain and France, was signed in 1729.

5—Vassar College, New York, was founded in 1865.

DAILY HOROSCOPE

Mary Blake Says:

Today Lucky if You Are CAREFUL

THERE are no very favorable indications today and great care must be exercised in all that you do.

Throughout the whole day you will be subject to fits of restlessness and morbid ideas. The restlessness must be curbed at any cost; all the will power you possess must be called upon to pursue the "even tenor of your way."

The morbid fancies that you may have must also be overcome, and if, in pursuit of your ordinary occupations, this result can be accomplished only with difficulty, try, if you can, to indulge in outdoor exercise of a mild character.

Lobster Patties

Two cups diced boiled lobster, 1 cup mushrooms broken in small pieces, ½ small onion minced, 1 tablespoon green peppere minced, 1 tablespoon pimento cut in small pieces, 3 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons flour, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 egg yolks beaten, 2½ cups of milk, patty cases, dash of cayenne, dash of nutmeg or mace. Melt the butter in a double boiler, add the onion, parsley and green pepper. Stir and cook 5 minutes. Add the mushrooms and pimento and cook 5 minutes. Stir in the flour, add milk, pour in slowly, stirring until it thickens. Add the lobster and cook 10 minutes. Just before serving add the milk to the egg yolks, add to mixture and cook 5 minutes. Serve in patty cases. If preferred the mushrooms may be omitted and chicken used instead.

HINTS FOR THE HOUSEHOLD

Roast geese can be served with apple or plum sauce, and braised celery or stewed chestnuts, while some people prefer roast turkey served with baked forcemeat balls and grilled bacon or sausages, roast potatoes and Brussels sprouts or stuffed tomatoes. When ordinary veal forcemeat is used for the stuffing, serve stewed chestnuts also, if liked, and cranberry jelly or rowan jelly.

A goose is generally served with the head on the left-hand side of the dish, as in this way it is easier to carve. Gravy and apple sauce are served separately.

A good way of removing creases from clothes that have been packed is to give them a steam bath. Close the window of the bath-room and then fill the bath-tub with very hot water. Hang up the clothes, shut the door, leave for an hour or so and dry them in the open air. Serious creases may be dealt with by pressing on the wrong side of the material with a moderately hot iron.

A vegetable grater should be used for the suet for puddings and mincemeat; it takes less time than chopping; or put the suet through the mincer.

Coppers and Oils are Leading Active Groups in Strong New York Stock Marke

AM. TELEPHONE AT NEW TOP FOR YEAR

Coppers and oils were the active leading groups today in a strong market on the New York Stock Exchange, with call money renewing at 5 per cent. American Telephone was at a new year's top at 124½.

More than a score of other stocks established new tops for 1923.

California Petroleum rose 3 points at 89½ for a year's high. Pan-American A and B and Pullman Petroleum were all active and up 2 points or better.

With reserve ratio of the New York Reserve Bank at a new high for the year, no room for doubt was left that the institution had raised its rediscount rate for the purpose of bringing it in line with other regions rather than to place a curb on speculative activities.

While the action of the stock market in the last few sessions had pretty convinced the financial community on this point, this additional proof served to allay the lingering fears of the doubting and the bullish enthusiasm at the opening, and the general level of industrial stocks made further progress on the current upswing.

American Smelting made a new high at 69¼ and Anaconda at 52¾.

Heavy covering by shorts resulted on higher cables sent cotton up 12 to 27 points at the openings, near months touching new highs for the season, with May at 30.35 cents.

Copper producers are asking 17 cents delivered, ¼ cent above Thursday. Demand is in good volume and price tendency still upward.

American Sugar Refining Company advanced refined sugar to 9.15 cents.

Wall St. Gossip

CHANDLER Motor Company, for 1922 shows net profit equal to $6.75 a share on common stock, against net profit of fourteen cents a share in 1921.

FROM February 1 to 24, inclusive, St. Paul loaded 120,664 cars of revenue freight, against 110,389 year ago.

IT IS understood Philadelphia & Reading will shortly give a contract to Baldwin Locomotive Works for twenty-five modern freight locomotives.

LOFT, Incorporated, for 1922 reports net profit of $581,326 after charges and Federal tax, and deficit of ninety-nine cents a share on 650,000 shares, no par, against $730,349 or $7.12 in 1921.

PENNSYLVANIA Sugar has advanced price of refined sugar to 9.15 cents, a new high for year.

TEXAS COMPANY is talked of for $4 dividend.

SINCLAIR OIL will pay $4 dividend, if latest rumors prove correct.

CHILE Copper will pay larger disbursement soon, according to a leading exchange house.

GREENE-CANANEA is said to be in line for dividend resumption during next quarter.

UTAH Copper is reported in earnings at rate of better than $6 a share.

CONTINENTAL Can pool bit a snag, according to rumors, and sold holdings to a syndicate.

MATHIESON Alkali Works, Inc., reports for 1922 net income after taxes of $978,401, which compares with deficit in 1921 of $188,648.

YOUNGSTOWN Sheet & Tube for 1922 reports $9.75 a share earnings, against a $19,306 deficit in 1921.

WELLS FARGO & Co. for 1922 shows net equivalent to $5.35 a share on $25,957,400 stock, against $6.34 a share in 1921.

NEW YORK, Chicago & St. Louis Railroad Company's net January operating income totalled $446,269, increase of $184,150.

CHESAPEAKE & Ohio's net January operating income amounted to $1,374,209, increase of $340,366.

LIMA Locomotive's current earnings are large, and the company is booked up with profitable business until late in year.

WHITE EAGLE OIL & Refining Company has completed wells Nos. 6 and 5 finally in Kansas, with initial daily production of 300 and 450 barrels respectively.

REPORTS of a possible merger of Lima with American Locomotive or Pullman Company have been revived recently. Officials assert there is no foundation for such rumors.

E. F. HUTTON & CO.—It looks as though the market were going into a new high territory; the steels and sugars should be leading.

TOBEY & KIRK—A trading position on the long side appears much the more conservative course.

PRINCE & WHITELY—Sentiment continues much divided, with some of the big professional operators actively bearish, which helps toward keeping the technical position of the market sound.

F. B. KEECH & CO.—We look for market irregularity, should advise careful selection in buying, and anticipate generally higher prices for the immediate future.

Lead Price Advanced

American Smelting & Refining Co. has advanced price of lead from 8.10 to 8.15 cents.

FORBES' VIEWS ON FINANCE

By B. C. Forbes

How often do you hear this kind of a wail:

Quantity, not quality, is what the world is going in for today. Craftsmanship has given way to the machine. Mass production is the one dominating goal of modern industry. What is the use in the old superior workmanship, but stupendous quantity. Art is sacrificed to output. And the people apparently are satisfied with things that are turned out by the hundreds of thousands, things without beauty, without art, without individuality.

Well, now, is this state of affairs regrettable, admitting for the moment, that most of the indictment is true?

Chippendale furniture was doubtless more beautiful and distinctive than the average output of our Grand Rapids factories. But in the days of the original Chippendale how many houses of the common people possessed furniture half as attractive—or half as plentiful—as the ordinary home possesses today?

Hand made shoes in the olden days probably contained more painstaking workmanship and more lasting qualities than the shoes turned out by the hundred thousand daily by the Endicott-Johnson, the International Shoe Company, W. L. Douglas, the Regal Shoe Company, etc. But are not the great majority of the people in the country better shod, more comfortably shod, than they were a generation and more ago?

* * *

Take houses. Time was when nearly everything going into the building of a home was turned out by hand. True, there were built last century and in early centuries some castles, some cathedrals, some mansions more artistic, more solid, more enduring than the buildings of today, in which the materials from cellar to roof are mostly machine made. Yet, when you question for a moment that the people of America live in more comfortable homes today than their forefathers knew.

* * *

Not so many years ago ready made clothing was a rarity. Mother made the clothes, the shoes, the clothing for her children, and sometimes for her husband, while those better off went to tailors or dressmakers. Everything then was done by hand. How does that condition compare with the clothing conditions of today? America now manufactures more machine-made clothing than any other country in the world, and probably one who has travelled abroad knows that Americans are the best dressed nation on the face of the earth, especially its working class people.

How about the lighting facilities of yesteryear and those of today? Candles used to be made by hand. So were cruses and the earliest lamps. Were these preferable to our beautiful machine made lamps and lighting fixtures of today, better than our machine made electric bulbs?

Food and its purveying have undergone a similar transformation. Food used to be raised by hand, so to speak. It was available only for local consumption. No one community enjoyed any great variety of edibles. During the long Winters the fare was terribly monotonous. Today the machine plays a virtually important part in the tilling of the soil, the garnering of the crops, their preparation into an endless variety of foodstuffs, and their distribution to every corner of the continent. Is not the breakfast, the dinner, the supper table of the multitude better laden today than ever before?

And so it goes in every phase and department of life and living. Machinery has given us automobiles and motor trucks in place of buggies and drays, trains and flying ships and trolley cars, drainage and bath tubs; ice and ice and watches for all; the telephone and radio; the typewriter; the phonograph and moving pictures —and a million and one things which go to make life more comfortable, more pleasant, more education, more hygienic, etc., etc.

* * *

Yes, we of today, we of the machine-made age, are very much better off than were our forefathers of the hand-made age.

VIRGINIAN POWER.

To W. R. P., Devonshire street—Virginian Power Company, a newcomer on the Boston Stock Exchange, has $5,000,000 common stock admitted to Boston trading. The concern supplies electric power to public utility companies operating in a number of municipalities, including Charleston, Huntington and Nitro, W. Va., and to many industrial plants within a radius of seventy-five miles of Charleston, W. Va., including chemical, pulp, lumber, foundry and other manufacturing industries. In addition company serves power to approximately 100 coal mining companies.

In addition to the $5,000,000 stock, capital consists of $1,200,000 6 per cent. non-cumulative preferred, 22,500 shares of no-par value prior preference stock and $6,402,800 5 per cent. mortgage bonds, due 1942.

For 1922, based on net operating earnings and eliminating interest on the 7 per cent. notes which are being retired with a part of the proceeds of the prior preference stock, the company reported earned, available for dividends, depreciation and reserves, $520,989. Average net earnings available for dividends, depreciation and reserves for the three years ended December 31, 1922, (after eliminating interest on the 7 per cent. notes), amounted to $368,149.

AM. CAR & FOUNDRY.

To D. U. N., Somerville.—Stock looks high to me. American Car & Foundry Company is one of the largest manufacturers of railroad equipment in the United States. It makes cars of all types, car wheels, interior woodwork, castings, forgings, repair parts and supplies. Its property includes sixteen freight car plants, with an annual capacity of 125,000 cars, and four passenger car factories with a capacity of 1,500 cars a year.

The present corporation was formed in 1899, as a consolidation of eighteen car equipment companies. Its capitalization consists of $35,000,000 non-cumulative seven per cent. preferred stock and $40,000,000 common stock. The company has no bonded debt. Its total assets are $126,853,234, according to its last published report. The common stock has a theoretical book value of $302 a share.

Since 1912 the company's annual net income has varied between $5,839,222 and $11,771,815. The former amount was earned in 1912 and the high record was made in 1918. The company's earnings for the last fiscal year were $6,382,320.

The seven per cent. dividend on the preferred stock has been paid regularly since organization of the company. Since 1904 the lowest annual rate paid on the common stock has been six per cent. from 1909 to 1916. Twelve per cent., the highest rate paid, was declared in 1920, and also in the following year.

The common stock has sold as low as 21 in 1909, and as high as 201 in 1921. It is now selling around 185 to yield 8.44 per cent. The preferred stock made a low record at 74 in 1907, and sold as high as 124 last year. At the present price of 125 it yields the investor about 5.60 per cent.

The prospects for the company are of course, closely related to those of the railroads. When the roads are in good financial condition, they are naturally buying more cars. At present almost every important railway system in the country is short of equipment and. if railroad prosperity continues to improve, the outlook for the American Car & Foundry should be satisfactory. It is said the needs of the railroads are sufficient to keep every existing equipment factory running until time for five years, provided the means of financing can be found.

UNION COTTON MILLS.

To N. I. N., Natick.—Keep your stock. Union Cotton Mills of Fall River stockholders in 1922 not only received a large extra dividend in February, but in December the directors recommended a stock dividend of 50 per cent. In 1921 Union stockholders received $12 in cash. in 1922 they received $11 in cash. The stock dividend recommended brings the capital of the Union Mills up to $1,800,000, considerably less than $20 per spindle. The shares of this corporation have proved to be a most wonderful investment over a long period of years, shareholders being surprised and gratified every few years by a very considerable extra cash dividend. The history of the mill under the management of Thomas E. Brayton is one of the most noteworthy in New England, and since he has retired from actual management, although remaining as president, the results seem to be equally gratifying. The last statement of the Union Cotton Mills showed that they had a surplus of net quick assets of $1,000,000.

CALIFORNIA PETE HAS UNIQUE WELL

California advices that California Petroleum Corporation's well, Rider No. 1, at Signal Hill, suddenly increased its flow from 4,000 barrels a day to 20,000 surprises local oil men, who say a thing of this sort has never been known in the oil industry before. Usual progress of a well is to come in with largest initial flush capacity and then settle down to a small part of the first flow.

REAL ESTATE HAPPENINGS

The property at No. 29 Newbury street, consisting of a four-story brick building and 3,192 square feet of land, has been conveyed by Edward F. Chassell to Llewellyn O. White, J. William Blaisdell and Charles A. Hoyle. The total assessed value is $50,000, of which $25,000 is on the land and $25,000 on the building.

BEACON STREET DWELLING.

Herbert Lawton of Quincy has purchased from A. Wilbert Starratt the five-story brick dwelling at No. 61 Beacon street, Beacon Hill. The dwelling overlooks Boston Common and the lot, totaling 4,800 square feet, has a frontage of twenty-eight feet and extends through to Branch street in the rear. The assessed valuation is $74,500, of which $43,500 is on the land. The property, formerly known as the Bryant House, has been extensively remodeled recently. Street & Co. were the brokers.

TREMONT AND WORCESTER STREETS.

Brick apartment property on the corner of Tremont and Worcester streets, assessed for $161,600, has been conveyed by Luis Levine and others to Kether Hyman. There are 6,500 square feet of land, assessed for $50,000.

MONTGOMERY AND BRIGHTON STREETS.

Peter J. Maguire sold to Catherine Shea the brick dwelling and 1,159 square feet of land at No. 48 Montgomery street, near Dartmouth street, valued by the assessors at $9,000.

The brick four-story house and 1,235 square feet of land at No. 77 Brighton street, between Chambers and Levret streets, has been sold by Morris Hershon to Barnet Balin. The property is taxed for $7,600, of which $3,000 is on the land.

Governor Acts on Coal

Declares Famine in More Critical Stage—Phelan Enjoying Himself Far Away

Governor Cox has sent a message to the Legislature declaring that the coal famine is in a more critical stage than ever and calling attention to the fact that in addition to our suffering on account of the scarcity of coal and its high price, we are being tortured with black matter called coal, which is nothing but iron and slate—sold to the poor in small quantities at thirty dollars a ton and which a representative of the Attorney-General's office says: "Would not burn in hell."

The Governor has called upon all departments of the State to join in an effort to relieve this coal situation and to run down and punish those coal dealers who are selling us this counterfeit coal. The Attorney-General's office, the Commissioner on the Necessaries of Life, the fifteen district attorneys, the State Board of Health, the State police, the local police, the State Sealer of Weights and Measures, the local Sealers of Weights and Measures, are all called upon to unite in a determined effort to locate good coal and bad coal, to condemn bad coal and to punish those who are distributing it and those who are hoarding good coal.

In the meantime, our Fuel Administrator James J. Phelan is far away disporting in his bathing suit under another flag and in a warmer clime!

Railroads and the Trucks

Any Legislator Who Favors Destroying Latter System Must Answer to the People

The railroads are apparently again at the work of sabotaging the economic gains which have come from the development of the gasoline truck as a transportation agency.

The railroads are now trying to do with the automobile truck what they so successfully did to our great canal system. Finding that the competition of the canals, mostly in public control, was making it difficult for them to earn dividends on their watered stock and on their inefficient and corrupt private management, they waged a campaign to destroy the canals.

They bribed public officials right and left and even Legislatures in bulk. It took some years to destroy these canals, but they did destroy them most effectively and thereby added untold billions to the cost of living, while Germany, owning and operating her railroads, built more and more canals in order to lighten the railroads of the load of heavy raw materials which did not need fast transportation.

Now our railroads have raised the freight rates until in certain grades of high-class freight the cost has become prohibitive. Fortune and the inventive capacity of the country developed the automobile truck to take up the task which the railroads deliberately abandoned, namely, short-haul transportation of freight, which it would be unprofitable to let the railroads haul.

Now come the railroads with a bill to put such burdens of special taxation and control on the trucks as will make their operation unprofitable, thus striking the public fore and aft and compelling them to pay the atrocious increased rates which President Wilson's last recusant Congress permitted the railroads to charge under the Esch-Cummins law, now repudiated by the whole country.

Any member of the Legislature who votes to destroy our trucking system for the benefit of the railroads will have to answer to his constituents, and there will be those who will see that he does answer, unless he defaults by failing to stand for re-election.

When Bootleggers Kill—

It Is Murder, of Course

Copyright, 1923, Star Company

In Chicago, a bootlegger, whose poisonous whiskey caused a woman's death, will be tried for murder. That's common sense. What's the difference between a man killing another with rat poison or wood alcohol? Violation of the law in selling poisonous whiskey should make the crime murder in the first degree, as it is murder in the first degree when a burglar, violating the law, kills a householder, without intending to do so.

Bootlegging, most profitable of all crimes, and most thoroughly organized, should be made the most dangerous of all crimes for the criminal.

Home Made Money

Another Trust Complication

Copyright, 1923, Star Company

The French have begun manufacturing "Rhine Thalers" from excellent plates made in Paris. This money will be used in the Ruhr, and in the Rhineland generally to pay bills and wages. The French will accept the home-made money in payment for food and other things they may sell. This adds more to the complications of those that deal in money and exchange.

Suppose the Japanese had seized part of the United States and were manufacturing money here, what would be the American attitude toward that money, and what the attitude of the outside world?

Let the People Enjoy It

Up in the Blue Hills there is a beautiful spot containing a small lake and perfect picnic grounds. The location is ideal. It lies athwart several favorite routes through the State. But it can only be made accessible by the construction of a short road from the main highway to the locality.

In these beautiful hills around about this spot winds sixty miles of bridle paths built for the pleasure of the well-to-do who can support saddle horses. But in this public reservation, owned by all the people, there are only five miles of roadway which the people themselves can enjoy.

All the plans to open up this reservation and make this beautiful spot accessible to automobile picnic parties and campers have been bitterly opposed by the wealthy residents enjoying these public reservations all to themselves.

How long will they succeed in their presumption?

WRITERS' PATH TO SUCCESS

By Lucy Lowell

THE girl who wrote me this letter assures me that it will give her "stage fright" to have it printed. But it won't.

She is not unique in her desires, ambitions and groupings, you see. Perhaps even YOU feel the same.

"My Dear Miss Lowell:

"I have been very interested in the way you have helped people.

"Ever since I can remember I have been a great dreamer. Indeed, my dream stories are about all the fun I get, being unable to work or partake in social affairs. I think up so many stories that I believe would make good movies or stories if only I had the gift and sufficient education to properly express myself. All I can do is write the bare plot. If only someone would develop the stories I think they would be saleable. G. H."

Ah, my dear! Don't you know that every great thing that ever has been accomplished in this world of ours was first a dream? A foolish person? Why I think you're one of the most sensible and altogether delightful persons ever to honor me with her confidence!

But let me tell you—and the others like you who read this—that no writer ever has achieved the expression of his visions or her dreams through the assistance of any one else.

Read books—good books. Study the people about you and write about THEM. Never, as you value faith with yourself, attempt to write about things with which you are not as familiar as you are with the inside of your own room.

Fishes Forecast Volcano Blast

HONOLULU, March 2.—Old-time residents along the kona (south) coast of the island of Hawaii are predicting an early eruption of the volcano Mauna Loa. They base this belief on the fact that huge schools of fish have recently been making their appearance along the shore, and they point out that a similar phenomenon occurred in 1919, just before the starting of the Alika flow. In every instance, as far back as can be remembered, it is said great numbers of fish have appeared close to land prior to an eruption.

THE VOICE OF NEW ENGLAND

Invasion of the Ruhr

Editor Boston American:

There seems to be an awful howl from some quarters on the invasion of the Ruhr district by France.

France is only trying to get what is justly due her, and I say let her go to it.

If some of those who have been knocking France had taken a trip across and got into the mixup during 1917 and 1918 and seen some of the beautiful cities and towns laid waste by German shell fire, I think they would feel a little different toward France. When I stop to think of what the Germans would have done had the tables been turned and if they had won the war, I tremble. YANKEE DIV. VET.

Keep Out Undesirables

Editor Boston American:

The article by Herbert Kaufman, "The Man Who Forgot to Take Latchkey With Him," was a very good one.

It is high time for something to be done in Congress to keep out all undesirables, including those who like to work here and spend their money abroad, without a thought of learning the language or taking any interest in public affairs.

The old excuse, "There is enough work for all," is gone now, so why let foreigners take the jobs away from our unemployed?

AN EVERETT READER.

Extra Session on Coal

Editor Boston American:

I suggest meetings all over New England and New York State urging President Harding to call an extra session of Congress at once to settle the coal and railroad questions. Never was it so important to call an extra session. There are other questions of vital importance on which early consideration is needed, but the coal situation is so serious it must be settled right and now.

Complete Baby Set

Editor Helping Hand:

Congratulations on the wonderful work done by the "Helping Hand." I have one complete set of clothes for some unfortunate little stranger, including an Iceland fur coat and bonnet, several pairs of booties and stockings, etc. Would be glad to give them to some deserving mother. These are all baby clothes. Also a friend has a small parlor stove he would give if party would call for it. I also have a fairly good coat for a girl of twelve or thirteen and two wash suits for a boy three.

MRS. O. G. M.

ED. NOTE—The address of Mrs. M. W., who needs baby clothes, and of Mrs. M. H. R., who needs the clothes for a boy and girl, will be sent you. Many thanks.

Offers Dresses

Editor Helping Hand:

Could you give me the name and address of a girl between thirteen and fifteen? I have some dresses in good condition that I will be glad to give.

H. D. G.

ED. NOTE—Miss C. M. L., who asked for clothes, will be put in touch with you. Thank you.

Comforts of Home

Editor Helping Hand:

In your column of February 13 Mrs. E. M. D. asked for home for herself and baby in return for doing housework. I answered it, but have not seen my answer or anyone else's. If she had been attended to, I wonder if there is a young or middle-aged woman who would appreciate all the comforts of a comfortable home in return for the housework and small pay?

MRS. C. E. P.

ED. NOTE—There is not room to publish a fraction of the letters received. Mrs. E. M. D. has been answered, but she will hold your letter.

Plaster Models

Editor Helping Hand:

I am an art student and would be very pleased to receive the plaster models offered by L. Would pay delivery charges.

G. D.

ED. NOTE—L.'s address will be forwarded you.

Six Fatherless Children

Editor Helping Hand:

I wonder if there is someone who would care to help six fatherless children, as their mother is on the danger list at the hospital with pneumonia and they need clothes very badly. Clothes to be made over will be thankfully received. Their ages run from twelve to two and one-half years. The four oldest are boys and the two youngest are girls.

Italian Convicts Put on Honor

PARIS, March 2.—One of Italian Premier Mussolini's first actions on coming to power has been the adoption for State prisons of the "honor system" in vogue in Oregon and other Western American States and which was once tried out at Sing Sing.

Mussolini is greatly impressed by the success of the system as practiced in America and has ordered that among other things solitary confinement be abolished in Italian penitentiaries, and all prisoners be given a chance to work on farms or in factories at stated wages.

These wages will be divided into three parts, one of which goes to the State to form a fund for the betterment of prison conditions, a second part to the party which suffered under the crime for which the prisoner was convicted, and the third part held in trust by the authorities until the day of the prisoner's discharge.

WE SPEND IN HASTE THEN TAX AT LEISURE

By Herbert Kaufman

THE British debt bill is signed. By far the biggest single financial transaction on record now simply wants seal and delivery. Good work. Who else wants to pay?

One hundred and sixty-one million dollars comes back to us the first year. We used to run the whole Federal governments for months on less.

But that was before we built three billion-dollar merchant fleets and sailed them straight to the auction block.

Three billion dollars prorated among all the people means that every average family of five in the United States contributed about one hundred and fifty dollars to the ill-starred venture.

Chairman Lasker warns us to prepare for a shock when the Stars and Stripes are hammered down from the 339 mastheads.

We'll be lucky to come out of the deal with half a billion.

Spend in haste and tax at leisure. The Treasury Department will collect the difference from your incomes.

President Harding believed that ship subsidy would prove less expensive. Congress didn't agree, and so a wonderful dream ends in a nightmare.

Great Britain will carry again the bulk of our ocean freights and probably, for the most part, in bottoms picked up on the greatest bargain counter in history.

That's how she'll earn much of the $161,000,000 to amortize war borrowings.

Shades of Yankee clippers, but we do manage weirdly at times!

The Entente Headed Toward Divorce

Ambassador Harvey, the famous now-it-can-be-told,' informs the Pilgrims, an Anglo-American society, that Britain did not guarantee our advances to other allies. More's the pity.

We'll be sixty-two years collecting what the English owe us, and nobody living will be here when the other loans are met.

France, so the cables allege, far from making any move toward the national checkbook, will oppose a redistribution of the billion gold marks out of which we were to have Rhineland occupation expenses.

Bonar Law is reputed to refuse Poincare's suggestion that London yield priority in further indemnities until the cost of Ruhr occupation is covered. This, right on top of a note to London criticizing the withdrawal of British cruisers from Smyrna without advising Paris.

Lord Curzon's act is interpreted as a hint to the Turks that they may deal separately with Britain.

Poincare conveniently forgets his own game of solitaire at Lausanne.

The entente isn't very far from the divorce courts.

Still Defenders of Civilization

Colonel Wedgewood, a Labor member, acting upon a demand to find if German girls have become "the slaves of Moors and negroes," forces admission in open Parliament that municipalities in occupied territory have been compelled to furnish women for French troops.

Ex-Premier Nitti's reiterated accusation is thus formally supported by Bonar Law's government.

We don't belong to the League of Nations and we apparently won't join The Hague tribunal, but we don't need the voice of any "international conscience" to speak the mind of America on such matters.

We fought Germany and largely brought about Prussia's defeat, we signed the treaty that disarmed the Kaiser's forces—let Paris remember that.

We have held aloof from expressing opinion on the seizure and exploitation of a common enemy's domain, but should these facts be true France owes us and all democracy a moral accounting. We are still defenders of civilization, even if she is not.

A Young Man With Decided Worries

Gentlemen running governments nowadays may well envy Cerberus his hundred heads. A hundred is none too many for the job. Mussolini begins to find national captaincy is not all beer and skittles.

There's another young man with worries.

To begin with, he twisted the lion's tail when he supported Poincare's Far East finesses. A particular unwise move with Italy so heavily obligated to England.

He can't collect reparations and his people can't procure from Germany the cheap merchandise to which their purses are accustomed.

The entente has not proved a very profitable investment, for Rome, either.

Italian labor stands idle for lack of raw materials. French industrialists frown upon his proposition to exchange a hundred thousand workers for their wage value in coal and iron.

There's quite some poison ivy in his laurel wreath.

Money Talks, but Can't Sing

Ganna Walska is hardly winning the crown of glory she expected to find waiting on the local concert stage.

Several places have tried her voice and found it very much wanting. Her millionaire husband's "notes and gold" seemingly can't provide golden notes.

Critics are ruthless in their estimate of her talent.

Great art is still sacred to genius—and above price.

Money talks, but it evidently can't sing.

Here's a Crowd That's Doing Things

The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers aren't begging for fuel allotments.

After buying a colliery last June they built a town for their laborers—a model community with attractive homes, churches, places of amusement, sanitary systems and other features accusingly absent from most colliery centres.

Wages are no higher than those of neighboring properties.

The engineers have had coal instead of strikes—coal at cost, distributed through co-operative yards.

A group rapidly approaching economic independence. They own banks and trust companies. They sell their men insurance—$18,000,000 of it this year and at lower rates than you pay.

The union is a landlord with two big buildings in Cleveland, alone. An investment company and a private printing plant are next on the program.

Here's a crowd that's doing things. You may yet see an American railroad owned by its operating staff.
